Ford heads for China

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, setting off on the first leg of his trip to the People's Republic of China, said today he hopes to "foster mutual understanding," but is promising the Chinese that "we will stand for our own views."

In brief remarks at Andrews Air Force Base, Ford expressed thanks that the United States is at peace in Asia and declared, "I begin a mission to Asia to consolidate that peace."

More than 100 persons, including dignitaries of the Chinese liaison office and the embassies of Indonesia and the Philippines, turned out in the cold, clear weather to see the President off. Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, both without coats on the windswept airfield, shook hands and talked with the officials before embarking on the trip.

As he departed on the first long flight of his 10-day trip, Ford indirectly appeared to acknowledge he does not expect the United States and China to see eye to eye on key issues.

But he said "stability in Asia and international security benefit from the new relationship of mutual respect that we are developing."

The President, accompanied by wife Betty and daughter Susan, was bound first for Fairbanks, Alaska, and an inspection tour of an outlying construction site along the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

After an overnight stop in Anchorage, they will leave for Peking, arriving Monday after a brief refueling stop near Tokyo.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, a principal architect of the 1971 arrangement that re-established official contact between the United States and China, was flying with Ford.

Referring to his scheduled stops in Indonesia and the Philippines, the President said, "As I did last year on my visits to Japan and the Republic of Korea, I will reaffirm America's undiminished interest in the security and well-being of Asia. That vast region is vital to us and to the world."

In references to the four days he will spend in Peking next week, Ford said, "We will stand on our own views, as we always have. But we will seek — in the American tradition — to foster mutual understanding."

In advance of the trip, U.S. officials said that "no spectacular announcements" should be expected from the Peking talks. But a senior American official, who declined to be identified, said the President's conferences could contribute to continued forward progress in normalizing relations between the two countries.

The senior official said "it would be a most unusual occurrence" if Chairman Mao Tse-Tung failed to receive Ford in Peking, but said no meeting between the two leaders is scheduled.

Quick hearings expected

Stevens nominated by Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee is expected to quickly schedule hearings on President Ford's nomination of Judge John Paul Stevens of Chicago to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court.

Immediate reaction from committee members to the nomination of the 55-year-old judge was limited because many lawmakers said they knew nothing of Stevens' background.

Ford, in announcing late Friday his selection of Stevens as successor to retired Justice William O. Douglas, said Stevens has had an outstanding career in practicing and teaching law as well as on the federal bench.

Stevens appeared before reporters in Chicago shortly after the President announced the nomination. He refused all comment beyond reading a brief statement.

"If the Senate finds my qualifications acceptable, I will begin the new assignment as expeditiously as possible and will do my utmost to discharge the responsibilities of the new office in a manner consistent with the finest traditions of a great institution," Stevens said in his statement.

"In all events, I will do everything in my power to render the best possible judicial service of which I am capable. I thank the President for his expression of confidence in me," he said.

Stevens was confirmed by the Senate in 1970 as a judge of the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals serving Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

3 hurt in SeMo accidents

One person was moderately injured and two received minor injuries in separate area traffic accidents Friday, according to the highway patrol.

A young Whitewater woman received moderate injuries in a two-vehicle collision at 6:20 p.m. Friday on Highway 34 one mile east of Jackson in Cape Girardeau County.

The accident occurred when a westbound car driven by Judy Ann Jones, 23, of Jackson was passing another westbound vehicle and collided head on with an eastbound car driven by David Clinton Jones, 22, of Whitewater.

A passenger in the eastbound vehicle, Kay Jones, 18, was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau for treatment.

A car-train accident at 1:55 p.m. Friday in Gobler on Route NN in Pemiscot County resulted in minor injuries to an Arkansas woman.

The accident occurred when a northbound car driven by Ruth Ann Foster, 33, of Rector, Ark., was crossing the railroad tracks and was struck in the left rear by an eastbound diesel train engine driven by James Rhea McDonough, 32, of Morley.

A passenger in the car, Marie Foster, 56, of Rector, Ark., was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital at Kennett.

A Kennett woman received minor injuries in a two-vehicle accident at 5:54 p.m. Friday at the junction of Highway 164 and Route NN, seven miles west of Steele at the Pemiscot and Dunklin county line.

The accident occurred when an eastbound pickup truck driven by Phillip Carl Blackburn, 16, of Hornersville, struck the side of a southbound car driven by Wanda Kay Petty, 25, of Kennett as the Petty vehicle pulled from Route NN onto Highway 164.

The woman was taken to the Blytheville Air Force Base Hospital at Blytheville, Ark.

Hearing on flood study set Dec. 11

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—The Memphis District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, today announced that a public meeting to discuss the results of studies for reducing agricultural flooding damages in the Big Lake Basin will be held Dec. 11 at 7 p.m. in the Mississippi County Courthouse at Charleston, Mo.

The Corps of Engineers will present the alternative plans considered during the study and the plan selected for recommendation. The selected plan of improvement includes a 150 cubic foot per second pumping station with an inlet ditch and energy dissipator structure to be located near the existing Drinkwater Sewer gravity outlet.

Anyone interested may attend or be represented.

Kentucky woman guides operation on her own brain

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A Kentucky woman is free of severe headaches for the first time in her life after guiding a neurosurgeon in a delicate 17-hour operation on her own brain.

"It's like walking a tightrope," the Louisville doctor said. "The patient and the surgeon walk it together, moving cautiously and tediously to avoid any misstep that would lead to disaster."

The woman's headaches were caused by abnormal blood vessels 2½ inches beneath her left temple, near brain centers that control speech and other vital functions.

To seal off the abnormal blood flow without cutting off the normal flow to the speech centers, it was necessary she remain awake — protected by a local anesthetic — so her responses to electrical stimulation of the brain could be observed.

The woman thought she wouldn't survive the operation, but the ordeal paid off. The headaches are gone.

The neurosurgeon and the patient granted interviews after her recovery, though both asked that their names not be used.

The woman, 45, said she had always felt "my headaches just went with living and raising two children."

But they became worse, and last January she suffered numbness in one arm and shoulder and went temporarily blind in one eye.

She was transferred in the spring to Norton's Children's Hospital in Louisville and the surgery, pioneered by neurosurgeons from the University of Louisville School of Medicine, was performed in October.

During the 17 hours the operation lasted, the neurosurgeon took only two brief breaks. Both he and the anesthesiologist spoke to the woman during the operation.

The patient, who had to remain extremely still when the surgeon was working, was given several breaks to change her position slightly. Toward the end of the operation, when the malformation had been removed, she was given a general anesthetic and allowed to sleep.

Since awaking, she said the headaches haven't returned. "I'll get along without them for the rest of my life," she said.

4 indicted on fraud charges

CHARLESTON--Four employes of the Charleston R-1 School District will be arraigned Monday in St. Louis on charges of defrauding the federal government.

The four, including a former assistant superintendent, were arrested Wednesday by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, following their indictment by a federal grand jury in St. Louis.

Named in the indictment are Charles F. Carthell, 37, Jewell Harris, 55, and Mrs. Dorothy J. Rosenfield, 34, of Charleston and Alvin L. Cope, 50, of Bertrand Route One.

All four appeared Wednesday afternoon before U.S. Magistrate Paul Mueller Jr. in Jackson and were released after posting $1,000 recognizance bonds.

The indictment alleges that Carthell and Harris received a total of $6,000 in wages from Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation at Portageville in the operation Mainstream program.

The two allegedly enrolled in the program with the aid of Cope and Mrs. Rosenfield and both received pay checks from DAEOC while they were also employed and paid by the Charleston R-1 School District.

The program is designed to give work to the unemployed and underpaid. Under the program, DAEOC pays the participants' salaries for the first year and the school district pays the salaries thereafter. Participants may not be employed and paid by the school district when they are enrolled.

Carthell and Harris, whose duties include driving school buses, were already employed and paid by the district prior to being enrolled in the program, the indictment says.

Cope, formerly an assistant administrator in charge of the DAEOC program in the R-1 system, is now a teacher. Mrs. Rosenfield, a secretary, allegedly aided in enrolling the two men in the program.

Carthell allegedly received checks from both DAEOC and the school system from Dec. 12, 1969 to Jan. 8, 1971, and Harris from March 6, 1972 through Jan. 22, 1973.

Dexter couple almost asphyxiated

DEXTER–A man and his wife were nearly killed Friday morning from a buildup of carbon monoxide from a faulty vent installation on a gas furnace.

Marvin and Jewell Lapchenske, 124 S. Locust St., were reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

The two were discovered by a nephew's family, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lapchenske, who had a dinner date with them.

Mrs. Lucille Lapchenske said today that they tried to call the couple several times that morning and received no answer.

They went by the house, found the door locked and could not rouse Lapchenske, who was sitting in the chair in the front room.

They contacted a neighbor, Jack Pritchard, and then Lloyd Lapchenske , who had a key, unlocked the door. Mrs. Jewell Lapchenske was found in a bedroom.

Pritchard called the fire department about 11:45 a.m. Friday. Fire Chief Al Banken said when the department arrived a crew from the Stoddard County Ambulance District was giving oxygen to the woman.

The department's resuscitator was applied to the man. Banken rode in the ambulance with Lapchenske to the hospital, keeping the machine on him.

Mrs. Lucille Lapchenske said when they found her uncle he was breathing, but unconscious. The woman was in better shape, since she was farther from the defective vent with doors closed between her and the vent.

The pair had apparently been having problems previously with the furnace. They were feeling sick Wednesday, Mrs. Lapchenske said, but decided it was due to a flu shot they had received earlier in the week.

The family had visited the nephew's home Thursday and returned home that night. Mrs. Lapchenske said the two blacked out sometime that night.

James D. Smith, district superintendent of the gas department of Missouri Utilities, said the company had not been contacted about the problem previously.

Banken said that if just a little more time had passed before the Lapchenskes were discovered, they probably would have died.

Police prevent gasoline theft

A police officer apparently interrupted the theft of gasoline from a van truck early today, and a radio has been reported stolen from a truck, according to police reports.

Cpl. Ed Speakman apparently interrupted the siphoning of gasoline at 2:40 a.m. today from a van truck parked at Stan's Carpet Center, Highway 60 East.

Police said a car belonging to Harold Drake Evans of Canalou was found parked nearby. Evans later told police the car had been stolen from along a gravel road where he left it after having car trouble.

A radio valued at $45 was taken from a truck parked beside the Frisco Railway Co. office, 301 S. Frisco St., sometime between Wednesday and Friday.

Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom, said a 23-inch color television console and two coin banks were the only items reported missing from the home. The front door had been forced open, he added.

Radio stolen

CHARLESTON---Banny J. Brock of Benton Route One reported that a 23-channel citizens band radio valued at $136 was stolen from his car while it was parked at the high school between 7 and 9:25 p.m. Friday.

Police Chief Bob Ritchey said a window had been broken to enter the car.

THE MODERN LITTLE RED HEN

William P. Drake, President and Chairman of the Board of the Pennwalt Corporation in Philadelphia, a firm which specializes in the production of chemicals and health products, has "modernized" the fable of The Little Red Hen.

"Once upon a time, there was a little red hen who scratched around the barnyard and uncovered some grains of wheat. She called her neighbors and said, 'If we plant this wheat, we shall have bread to eat. Who will help me plant it?'"

" 'Not I,' replied the cow, the duck, the pig and the hoose in succession.

" 'Then I will,' said the little red hen. And she did. The wheat grew tall and ripened into golden grain. 'Who will help me reap my wheat?' asked the little red hen...."

In Mr. Drake's modernized version of the story, the little red hen asks the same question of her barnyard friends in baking the bread. But the refusals she gets include: "Out of my classification"; "I'd lose my unemployment benefits"; "I'd lose my welfare benefits"; "I'm a dropout and never learned how"; "If I'm to be only the helper, that's discrimination."

However, when the little red hen had baked the loaves, then — continuing Mr. Drake's version: "They all wanted some and, in fact, demanded a share. But the little red hen said, 'No, I can eat the loaves myself.'

" 'Excess profits!' cried the cow.

"Capitalist leech!' screamed the duck.

"I demand equal rights!' yelled the goose. And they painted 'unfair' picket signs and marched round and round the little red hen, shouting obscenities.

"When the government agent came, he said to the little red hen, 'You must not be greedy.'

"But I earned the bread,' said the little red hen.

" 'Exactly,' said the agent. 'That is the wonderful free enterprise system. Anyone in the barnyard can earn as much as he wants. But under our modern government regulations, productive workers must divide their product with the idle.'"

At the end of the "modernized" fable, all of the neighbors of the little red hen "wondered why she never again baked any more bread."

There is, of course, an obvious moral to the story: when hardworking producers in our society find too much of their income being siphoned off by the government to be given to non-producers, they will simply stp producing, resulting in equal poverty to all.

IN AID OF CITY REVENUE

The financial plight of New York and a few other large cities to one side, America's cities are, in the aggregate, making ends meet.

According to U.S. Census Bureau data, municipalities took in a total of $52.8 billion in fiscal 1974, an increase of 9 per cent over the previous year. Expenditures totalled $52.2 billion, an 8.8 per cent increase.

A growing proportion of city revenue is coming from the federal and state governments, however, in the form of grants-in-aid and shared taxes. Federal support rose from 3.5 per cent to 12.4 per cent of general revenue in fiscal '74 and state aid went up from 17.3 to 23.7 per cent.

In other words, well over a third of all municipal revenue that year was not generated by the cities themselves.

A reflection of this is the fact that, while property taxation continues to be the single most important source of city income, as a percentage of total revenues it declined from 41.2 to 27.7 per cent.

MR. MOYNIHAN'S TWO BITS

Since there is no way on earth for the United States to get its money's worth out of the UN, most Americans take what comfort they can from being represented by a man like Daniel P. Moynihan, who doesn't shrink from getting his two bits' worth.

Moynihan, a Harvard professor who has flitted in and out of the last four presidential administrations, not always with the greatest of ease or grace, has been doing an admirable job at the big Glass House in New York. When he took over as ambassador last spring, he put an end to the customary mealy-mouthed diplomatic double-talk one expects in UN circles. Moynihan pledged to tell it like it is. That he has done.

Plain speaking is offensive to many members of the striped pants set, and evidently Moynihan ruffled more than the Arabs and the Africans with his blunt approach. No less a dignitary than Ivor Richard, Britain's ambassador to the United Nations, criticized Moynihan. Ambassador Richard compared his American colleague to Wyatt Earp, Savonarola and King Lear, all in the same breath, which is no mean trick.

Freedom of speech is guaranteed to citizens in the United States and is a courtesy extended to foreign visitors. Moynihan evidently wasn't too annoyed at what Richard had said about him. Moynihan suspected that Richard was prompted by Secretary of State Kissinger to snipe at him. Now there's another matter!

NO ONE TO MINCE WORDS, Moynihan let it be known in the highest quarters, the White House itself, that he would resign if he did not enjoy the support of the President. This threat, delivered appropriately from the bar in the UN lounge, brought an invitation from President Ford for an internal summit meeting with Moynihan and Kissinger.

When the session adjourned it was with an expression of "confidence" in the ambassador by President Ford and with assurances from Kissinger that Moynihan's work was appreciated.

If indeed Kissinger attempted to undercut Moynihan, it was a serious miscalculation. While a great many Americans would prefer to see this nation pull out of the UN, there is a determination that, lacking this step, the U.S. must speak out forecefully against the tyranny and despotism of the so-called "Third World" countries. Moynihan has been doing his job effectively.

In previous administrations Moynihan has served as an assistant Secretary of Labor, as a presidential counselor and as Ambassador to India. It is believed President Ford was prompted to name him to the UN post after Moynihan wrote an article last March in Commentary magazine, saying it was time that the American ambassador "came to be feared in international forums for the truths he might tell." In the same article Moynihan took a slap at the shopworn British Socialist doctrine being preached in the Third World countries. This may still stick in the craw of British Ambassador Richard, Moynihan's vocal critic.

MOYNIHAN IS AT HIS BEST when under direct attack. When Tanzania threatened to vote against the United States on the issue of Puerto Rico, Moynihan let it be known that "the United States would consider this a flagrant interference into internal affairs and an unfriendly act." Tanzania backed down and voted with the U.S. Moynihan was asked if this was a sample of his policy toward the Third World and he replied: "It most assuredly is. We did not intend it as rude act. It wasn't. We intended it to have consequences. It did."

Moynihan's stout defense of Israel against tinhorn dictators such as Uganda's President Idi Amin have won him much admiration. When he got himself in a jam with Kissinger by referring to Amin as a "racist murderer," he was not employing his own description, but merely repeating a phrase used in a new York Times editorial.

What's good for the New York Times should be good for Moynihan. If that citadel of liberalism can begin to see the Third World in its true light, there may be hope for others.

While Moynihan's around at the UN, there remains hope the U.S. will not be spineless and servile.

INTENT OF LAW IGNORED

The Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) was established to tighten government regulation of trading in commodity futures. The independent CFTC took over the functions of the Commodity Exchange Authority, an arm of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Self-policing" by private commodity exchanges was the operating philosophy of the exchange authority. The agency became a virtual captive of the exchanges, which protected members of their exclusive club.

Creation of the CFTC was a badly needed step that promised to reduce the coziness between regulators and the regulated. So it is disturbing to learn that the acting executive director of the CFTC, Beverly Splane, has been hired as executive vice-president of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, one of the exchanges the federal agency regulates.

As a former White House personnel aide, Splane screened applicants for the five-member CFTC and was influential in staffing the agency. She then was named its activing executive director, a post she held for six months. The Chicago Mercantile Exchange has several complaints pending before the CFTC. Splane said that before negotiating with the exchange for the job she obtained an opinion from the CFTC's general counsel that there would be no conflict-of-interest or law violation in her joining the private firm.

The potential for conflicts when officials of regulating commissions take jobs with the regulated industry was recognized by the authors of the act creating the CFTC. They said job shifts "hurt the image of the government regulators, even when the letter of the law is met."

Splane has hurt the image of the CFTC by violating the spirit of conflict-of-interest standards. Public confidence in the ability of the CFTC to minitor commodity futures trading has been jeopardized. Her job-jump is as Senator Dick Clark (Dem., Ia.) described it: "A discouragement to those of us who hoped that the new agency would bring real reform."

U.S. RULES ITS BURIED TREASURE OFF LIMITS

Not just professional environmentalists but a lot of ordinary people were upset to learn recently that several companies were either strip mining or thinking about strip mining for minerals in Death Valley National Monument, because of a loophole in the 1933 law establishing the park.

Congress is now acting to amend the law, and although one of the companies mining in Death Valley points out that there is far greater environmental danger from tourists than from any of its operations, and although none of the companies forces Americans to consume its products, few people are going to defend the right of diesel-smoking shovels and cranes to mar the picturesque and romantic beauty of Death Valley.

Surely, there must be plenty of other places these companies can mine.

There are. Then again, there aren't.

The startling fact is that more than two-thirds of the nation's public, federally owned land—and most land out West is owned by the government—is not available for mining. Bit by bit, acre by acre, charges the American Mining Congress, various federal agencies over the years have been withdrawing tracts of land until it amounts to an unbelievable total: an area larger than 25 of the 27 states east of the Mississippi.

Closed not only to mining but even to mineral exploration is a landmass equivalent to Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Tennesdsee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

In an article in the Mining Congress Journal, Gary Bennethum and Courtland Lee, two specialists in the Department of the Interior, compare U.S. public lands to a bank account. The rate of withdrawals, they warn, may soon bring us to the point where our checks begin to bounce.

What is particularly alarming, they say, is that much of the withdrawn land has potential for discovery of significant mineral deposits.

A report by the Secretary of the Interior last year estimated that each year the nation has to produce about 40,000 pounds of new minerals for each citizen.

Pulling the Plug:
General Strike Cliffhanger -- or, How A City Was Almost Paralyzed

NEW HAVEN, Conn. -- For stark realism this supposedly bucolic town is tougher and its main streets more deserted at night than the Yale University theatre. But a real-life drama was played out here last week which deserves reviewing -- the danger of a general strike which could have pulled the plug on the city's vital organs for a day.

For months now almost whenever conflict has developed between low cash cities and their civil service eimployes, the municipal central labor council leaders swiftly threatened a general stoppage. That's playing with political, commercial and industrial dynamite.

Here during a teachers strike, even the president of the Greater New Haven Central Labor Council, the very man who was set to paralyze this little apple for a full day, told me, "But thank God this all didn't have to happen."

It is this man, Vincent J. Sirabella, wearing several hats inside labor, who first threatened the general strike and then conceded that the unions might, or would if they could, permit fire, police protection; electric power for hospitals and other really essential services. Who's to make that decision? Why should it be in the hands of a central labor council led by the nation's Sirabellas? (He also is regional general organizer for the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders Union and business agent for a local of 1,500 workers at Yale University.)

Sirabella says he would have shut Yale "down tight." No cultural loss, perhaps, to some. But doesn't this begin to resemble the Latin American approach to political or industrial control of colleges if carried to any extreme? Or if a precedent is set?

Fact is that the general strike threat sprang from an illegal stoppage by the local teachers federation. There are 1,200 instructors here. Some 400 stayed on the job. Some 800 didn't. Some of the strikers were "jailed." They were dispatched by Superior Court Judge George Saden to a recently renovated Air Force barracks and their dinner for the night was table d'hote: veal parmesan, mashed potatoes and vegetables, and a good dessert.

Many "incarcerated" teachers took it as a lark though heavy fines do, at this writing, hang over them. But deliberately they broke the law. Of this state statute banning teachers walkouts, Sirabella, a veteran of 15 years as president of the Central Labor Council, said:

"We regard this as a law that doesn't deserve to be respected." Later he said it won't be tolerated nor would the jailings.

If Sirabella and his colleagues are going to be selective law-abiding citizens, they'd better take heed, look around them and scan the nation. This selectivity would be a precedent dangerous for those inside labor.

Until the teachers' stoppage ended, the general strike threat hung like smog over this tense New England community:

"We were absolutely geared up for action," Sirabella told me. "I have never seen such cohesion within the labor movement in my 15 years as president of the council. I would have liked to see everything shut down. But I cannot guarantee that it would have been the electric plug which would have been pulled.

"But I do know that we would have had 80 per cent of the city standing still. We had the support of the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union. No railroads, no buses, no transport would have been moving. We had the auto workers and the United Electrical Workers with us.

"Yale University would have been closed down tight and we had an agreement with the school of no retribution towards our members."

In the face of this general stoppage, and the loss of several million dollars in hotel, restaurant, supermarket and other commercial and business enterprises, and always aware that a general stoppage could get out of hand, the authorities yielded somewhat. The threat for the moment was over. But not the precedent of a general strike cliffhanger.

Some of the Connecticut teachers did what comes naturally -- they moved 2,000 men and women into Hartford and picketed the state capital demanding repeal of the anti-strike law.

But Sirabella and his Central Labor Council actually contemplated pulling the plug on the respirator which pumps life into the community and university. Why should any group of citizens have such power?

The Connecticut Superior Court, in the person of George Saden, hardly a hanging judge, put it right:

"If you think it is smart to violate the law, if you think it is smart to decide for yourselves what you think is right, then you have taken the first step toward what amounts to anarchy," he told the teachrs.

And earlier he had warned: "It seems to me that it's time that you . . . realize that in this city and other cities, a teacher group is not the sun which the rest of the universe revolves around." Bad grammar. Good judgment. Bad astronomy, but down to earth.

One of these days, as the financial crunch New York-izes scores of municipalities, the loose talk and threat of a general strike will turn into action as it almost did recently in San Francisco and once actually did, bloodying the streets there. Then police or National Guardsmen on one side will face workers on the other. No one wants that gruesome scene played in real life. Time has come to cool it.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Law-And-Order Scorecard
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — During the Nixon years, law and order were honored more in the preachment than the practice.

The term was introduced to politics by Richard Kleindienst, who suggested "law and order" as a campaign cry for Barry Goldwater in 1964. John Mitchell picked it up in 1968 and made it the main theme of Richard Nixon's campaign. Spiro Agnew gave loud voice to "law and order" on the campaign trail.

As their reward, Agnew, Mitchell and Kleindienst became the chief promotors of law and order in the Nixon Administration. They joined in January, 1972, in proclaiming a major new anti-crime program. They voted, at a cost of $160 million, to reduce crime in eight targeted cities by five per cent in two years and up to 20 per cent in five years.

The three law-and-order stalwarts later stumbled over the law themselves and wound up in varying degrees of jeopardy before the courts. Their anti-crime program, sadly, didn't fare much better.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) insists it is too early to assess the impact of the program upon crime. The agency's own crime figures, upon which the program was based, are still unavailable.

But the FBI's crime statistics have become the official yardstick of just how much evil lurks in the hearts of men. These figures, which are accepted as scripture by lawmen everywhere, showthat total crime in the eight targeted cities did not drop five per cent but shot up more than 43 per cent during the two-year, 1972-74 period.

In all fairness, the $160 million was disburseed with the particular intent of reducing homicide, rape, robbery and aggravated assault. In these categories, the eight cities did better, with an average increase of only 10.2 per cent. Two of the cities, Dallas and Newark, actually showed small declines in these more grievous crimes.

From LEAA's confidential files, we have learned how some of the $160 million was spent. It might be enlightening to compare the expenditures with the crime figures:

-- In Atlanta, a full $1.5 million was spent to purchase helicopters to increase police "visibility." Another $72,750 went "to modify existing field report forms," and $28.246 was used to hire an administrative assistant for the police chief. None of this kept the crime rate from soaring 46.4 per cent.

-- In Baltimore, $442,845 was awarded to hire civilians for deskwork and, thereby, to free policemen to fight crime. Another $420,777 was invested in a helicopter patrol, and $204,000 was spent for guards, TV monitors and intercoms to keep an eye and ear on public housing projects. Crime in Baltimore, nevertheless, shot up an alarming 49.6 per cent.

-- The city of Cleveland wangled $100,000 from LEAA for publicity. This didn't deter crime, which rose 26.7 per cent.

-- Dallas spent $54,102 on a disbanded program to tie 50 sensory burglar alarms to a helicopter response system. Total crime, up 81.9 per cent, reached greater heights than the helicopters.

-- Denver spent $522,000 of its federal allotment for street lighting, but the extra light didn't seem to hinder the criminals. The crime rate was up 22.5 per cent.

-- Newark also tried to shine more light on crime, with a $107,200 expenditure on street lights. An internal report also criticizes the city for failing to complete its "evaluations." The Newark crime rate has moved up 4.7 per cent.

-- Portland, Ore., was granted $5,471,581 for adult corrections projects. Yet as of Sept. 30, 1974, according to a report buried in the files, "only $15,340 or .3 per cent of the total ... had been expended." The city spent another $173,000 for street lighting. The crime rate, nevertheless, skyrocketed 57.6 per cent.

-- The same report charges that St. Louis rushed ahead with projects "until the budget was exhausted, independent of any community input, coordianted master plan or baseline data." The crime rate, accordingly, zoomed 55.9 per cent.

Footnote: An official spokesman explained to our associate, Bob Owens, that the money was supposed to provide "more bang for the buck." The spokesman insisted that there had been "individual project successes" and a "number of instances" of reduced crime goals.

AGNEW MUZZLED: In an earlier column, we reported the backstage events that forced Spiro Agnew out of the vice presidency and lost him the chance to become President.

According to sources close to him, Agnew feels he was euchred out of office by former President Richard Nixon and is eager to tell the story.

However, the former Vice President is "muzzled," said a friend, for another four years. Because criminal charges still hang over Agnew's head, he won't be free to publish his book until the statute of limitations runs out.

Meanwhile his attorney and erstwhile Nixon intimate, Charles Colson, has written a book, which discusses Agnew's downfall. We have had access to the page proofs.

As Vice President, Agnew sought to be impeached by Congress rather than indicted by a grand jury. Colson claims that President Nixon worked behind the scenes on Capitol Hill to undermine Agnew. "White House lobbyists," wrote Colson, "had cut the ground out from under their own Vice President."

In other words, well over a third of all municipal revenue that year was not generated by the cities themselves.

A reflection of this is the fact that, while property taxation continues to be the single most important source of city income, as a percentage of total revenues it declined from 41.2 to 27.7 per cent.

MR. MOYNIHAN'S TWO BITS

Since there is no way on earth for the United States to get its money's worth out of the UN, most Americans take what comfort they can from being represented by a man like Daniel P. Moynihan, who doesn't shrink from getting his two bits' worth.

Moynihan, a Harvard professor who has flitted in and out of the last four presidential administrations, not always with the greatest of ease or grace, has been doing an admirable job at the big Glass House in New York. When he took over as ambassador last spring, he put an end to the customary mealy-mouthed diplomatic double-talk one expects in UN circles. Moynihan pledged to tell it like it is. That he has done.

Plain speaking is offensive to many members of the striped pants set, and evidently Moynihan ruffled more than the Arabs and the Africans with his blunt approach. No less a dignitary than Ivor Richard, Britain's ambassador to the United Nations, criticized Moynihan. Ambassador Richard compared his American colleague to Wyatt Earp, Savonarola and King Lear, all in the same breath, which is no mean trick.

Freedom of speech is guaranteed to citizens in the United States and is a courtesy extended to foreign visitors. Moynihan evidently wasn't too annoyed at what Richard had said about him. Moynihan suspected that Richard was prompted by Secretary of State Kissinger to snipe at him. Now there's another matter!

NO ONE TO MINCE WORDS, Moynihan let it be known in the highest quarters, the White House itself, that he would resign if he did not enjoy the support of the President. This threat, delivered appropriately from the bar in the UN lounge, brought an invitation from President Ford for an internal summit meeting with Moynihan and Kissinger.

When the session adjourned it was with an expression of "confidence" in the ambassador by President Ford and with assurances from Kissinger that Moynihan's work was appreciated.

If indeed Kissinger attempted to undercut Moynihan, it was a serious miscalculation. While a great many Americans would prefer to see this nation pull out of the UN, there is a determination that, lacking this step, the U.S. must speak out forecefully against the tyranny and despotism of the so-called "Third World" countries. Moynihan has been doing his job effectively.

In previous administrations Moynihan has served as an assistant Secretary of Labor, as a presidential counselor and as Ambassador to India. It is believed President Ford was prompted to name him to the UN post after Moynihan wrote an article last March in Commentary magazine, saying it was time that the American ambassador "came to be feared in international forums for the truths he might tell." In the same article Moynihan took a slap at the shopworn British Socialist doctrine being preached in the Third World countries. This may still stick in the craw of British Ambassador Richard, Moynihan's vocal critic.

MOYNIHAN IS AT HIS BEST when under direct attack. When Tanzania threatened to vote against the United States on the issue of Puerto Rico, Moynihan let it be known that "the United States would consider this a flagrant interference into internal affairs and an unfriendly act." Tanzania backed down and voted with the U.S. Moynihan was asked if this was a sample of his policy toward the Third World and he replied: "It most assuredly is. We did not intend it as rude act. It wasn't. We intended it to have consequences. It did."

Moynihan's stout defense of Israel against tinhorn dictators such as Uganda's President Idi Amin have won him much admiration. When he got himself in a jam with Kissinger by referring to Amin as a "racist murderer," he was not employing his own description, but merely repeating a phrase used in a new York Times editorial.

What's good for the New York Times should be good for Moynihan. If that citadel of liberalism can begin to see the Third World in its true light, there may be hope for others.

While Moynihan's around at the UN, there remains hope the U.S. will not be spineless and servile.

INTENT OF LAW IGNORED

The Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) was established to tighten government regulation of trading in commodity futures. The independent CFTC took over the functions of the Commodity Exchange Authority, an arm of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Self-policing" by private commodity exchanges was the operating philosophy of the exchange authority. The agency became a virtual captive of the exchanges, which protected members of their exclusive club.

Creation of the CFTC was a badly needed step that promised to reduce the coziness between regulators and the regulated. So it is disturbing to learn that the acting executive director of the CFTC, Beverly Splane, has been hired as executive vice-president of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, one of the exchanges the federal agency regulates.

As a former White House personnel aide, Splane screened applicants for the five-member CFTC and was influential in staffing the agency. She then was named its activing executive director, a post she held for six months. The Chicago Mercantile Exchange has several complaints pending before the CFTC. Splane said that before negotiating with the exchange for the job she obtained an opinion from the CFTC's general counsel that there would be no conflict-of-interest or law violation in her joining the private firm.

The potential for conflicts when officials of regulating commissions take jobs with the regulated industry was recognized by the authors of the act creating the CFTC. They said job shifts "hurt the image of the government regulators, even when the letter of the law is met."

Splane has hurt the image of the CFTC by violating the spirit of conflict-of-interest standards. Public confidence in the ability of the CFTC to minitor commodity futures trading has been jeopardized. Her job-jump is as Senator Dick Clark (Dem., Ia.) described it: "A discouragement to those of us who hoped that the new agency would bring real reform."

U.S. RULES ITS BURIED TREASURE OFF LIMITS

Not just professional environmentalists but a lot of ordinary people were upset to learn recently that several companies were either strip mining or thinking about strip mining for minerals in Death Valley National Monument, because of a loophole in the 1933 law establishing the park.

Congress is now acting to amend the law, and although one of the companies mining in Death Valley points out that there is far greater environmental danger from tourists than from any of its operations, and although none of the companies forces Americans to consume its products, few people are going to defend the right of diesel-smoking shovels and cranes to mar the picturesque and romantic beauty of Death Valley.

Surely, there must be plenty of other places these companies can mine.

There are. Then again, there aren't.

The startling fact is that more than two-thirds of the nation's public, federally owned land—and most land out West is owned by the government—is not available for mining. Bit by bit, acre by acre, charges the American Mining Congress, various federal agencies over the years have been withdrawing tracts of land until it amounts to an unbelievable total: an area larger than 25 of the 27 states east of the Mississippi.

Closed not only to mining but even to mineral exploration is a landmass equivalent to Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Tennesdsee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

In an article in the Mining Congress Journal, Gary Bennethum and Courtland Lee, two specialists in the Department of the Interior, compare U.S. public lands to a bank account. The rate of withdrawals, they warn, may soon bring us to the point where our checks begin to bounce.

What is particularly alarming, they say, is that much of the withdrawn land has potential for discovery of significant mineral deposits.

A report by the Secretary of the Interior last year estimated that each year the nation has to produce about 40,000 pounds of new minerals for each citizen.

Pulling the Plug: General Strike Cliffhanger -- or, How A City Was Almost Paralyzed

NEW HAVEN, Conn. -- For stark realism this supposedly bucolic town is tougher and its main streets more deserted at night than the Yale University theatre. But a real-life drama was played out here last week which deserves reviewing -- the danger of a general strike which could have pulled the plug on the city's vital organs for a day.

For months now almost whenever conflict has developed between low cash cities and their civil service eimployes, the municipal central labor council leaders swiftly threatened a general stoppage. That's playing with poiitical, commercial and industrial dynamite.

Here during a teachers strike, even the president of the Greater New Haven Central Labor Council, the very man who was set to paralyze this little apple for a full day, told me, "But thank God this all didn't have to happen."

It is this man, Vincent J. Sirabella, wearing several hats inside labor, who first threatened the general strike and then conceded that the unions might, or would if they could, permit fire, police protection; electric power for hospitals and other really essential services. Who's to make that decision? Why should it be in the hands of a central labor council led by the nation's Sirabellas? (He also is regional general organizer for the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders Union and business agent for a local of 1,500 workers at Yale University.)

Sirabella says he would have shut Yale "down tight." No cultural loss, perhaps, to some. But doesn't this begin to resemble the Latin American approach to political or industrial control of colleges if carried to any extreme? Or if a precedent is set?

Fact is that the general strike threat sprang from an illegal stoppage by the local teachers federation. There are 1,200 instructors here. Some 400 stayed on the job. Some 800 didn't. Some of the strikers were "jailed." They were dispatched by Superior Court Judge George Saden to a recently renovated Air Force barracks and their dinner for the night was table d'hote: veal parmesan, mashed potatoes and vegetables, and a good dessert.

Many "incarcerated" teachers took it as a lark though heavy fines do, at this writing, hang over them. But deliberately they broke the law. Of this state statute banning teachers walkouts, Sirabella, a veteran of 15 years as president of the Central Labor Council, said:

"We regard this as a law that doesn't deserve to be respected." Later he said it won't be tolerated nor would the jailings.

If Sirabella and his colleagues are going to be selective law-abiding citizens, they'd better take heed, look around them and scan the nation. This selectivity would be a precedent dangerous for those inside labor.

Until the teachers' stoppage ended, the general strike threat hung like smog over this tense New England community:

"We were absolutely geared up for action," Sirabella told me. "I have never seen such cohesion within the labor movement in my 15 years as president of the council. I would have liked to see everything shut down. But I cannot guarantee that it would have been the electric plug which would have been pulled.

"But I do know that we would have had 80 per cent of the city standing still. We had the support of the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union. No railroads, no buses, no transport would have been moving. We had the auto workers and the United Electrical Workers with us.

"Yale University would have been closed down tight and we had an agreement with the school of no retribution towards our members."

In the face of this general stoppage, and the loss of several million dollars in hotel, restaurant, supermarket and other commercial and business enterprises, and always aware that a general stoppage could get out of hand, the authorities yielded somewhat. The threat for the moment was over. But not the precedent of a general strike cliffhanger.

Some of the Connecticut teachers did what comes naturally -- they moved 2,000 men and women into Hartford and picketed the state capital demanding repeal of the anti-strike law.

But Sirabella and his Central Labor Council actually contemplated pulling the plug on the respirator which pumps life into the community and university. Why should any group of citizens have such power?

The Connecticut Superior Court, in the person of George Saden, hardly a hanging judge, put it right:

"If you think it is smart to violate the law, if you think it is smart to decide for yourselves what you think is right, then you have taken the first step toward what amounts to anarchy," he told the teachrs.

And earlier he had warned: "It seems to me that it's time that you . . . realize that in this city and other cities, a teacher group is not the sun which the rest of the universe revolves around." Bad grammar. Good judgment. Bad astronomy, but down to earth.

One of these days, as the financial crunch New York-izes scores of municipalities, the loose talk and threat of a general strike will turn into action as it almost did recently in San Francisco and once actually did, bloodying the streets there. Then police or National Guardsmen on one side will face workers on the other. No one wants that gruesome scene played in real life. Time has come to cool it.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Law-And-Order Scorecard

with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — During the Nixon years, law and order were honored more in the preachment than the practice.

The term was introduced to politics by Richard Kleindienst, who suggested "law and order" as a campaign cry for Barry Goldwater in 1964. John Mitchell picked it up in 1968 and made it the main theme of Richard Nixon's campaign. Spiro Agnew gave loud voice to "law and order" on the campaign trail.

As their reward, Agnew, Mitchell and Kleindienst became the chief promotors of law and order in the Nixon Administration. They joined in January, 1972, in proclaiming a major new anti-crime program. They voted, at a cost of $160 million, to reduce crime in eight targeted cities by five per cent in two years and up to 20 per cent in five years.

The three law-and-order stalwarts later stumbled over the law themselves and wound up in varying degrees of jeopardy before the courts. Their anti-crime program, sadly, didn't fare much better.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) insists it is too early to assess the impact of the program upon crime. The agency's own crime figures, upon which the program was based, are still unavailable.

But the FBI's crime statistics have become the official yardstick of just how much evil lurks in the hearts of men. These figures, which are accepted as scripture by lawmen everywhere, showthat total crime in the eight targeted cities did not drop five per cent but shot up more than 43 per cent during the two-year, 1972-74 period.

In all fairness, the $160 million was disburseed with the particular intent of reducing homicide, rape, robbery and aggravated assault. In these categories, the eight cities did better, with an average increase of only 10.2 per cent. Two of the cities, Dallas and Newark, actually showed small declines in these more grievous crimes.

From LEAA's confidential files, we have learned how some of the $160 million was spent. It might be enlightening to compare the expenditures with the crime figures:

-- In Atlanta, a full $1.5 million was spent to purchase helicopters to increase police "visibility." Another $72,750 went "to modify existing field report forms," and $28,246 was used to hire an administrative assistant for the police chief. None of this kept the crime rate from soaring 46.4 per cent.

-- In Baltimore, $442,845 was awarded to hire civilians for deskwork and, thereby, to free policemen to fight crime. Another $420,777 was invested in a helicopter patrol, and $204,000 was spent for guards, TV monitors and intercoms to keep an eye and ear on public housing projects. Crime in Baltimore, nevertheless, shot up an alarming 49.6 per cent.

-- The city of Cleveland wangled $100,000 from LEAA for publicity. This didn't deter crime, which rose 26.7 per cent.

-- Dallas spent $54,102 on a disbanded program to tie 50 sensory burglar alarms to a helicopter response system. Total crime, up 81.9 per cent, reached greater heights than the helicopters.

-- Denver spent $522,000 of its federal allotment for street lighting, but the extra light didn't seem to hinder the criminals. The crime rate was up 22.5 per cent.

-- Newark also tried to shine more light on crime, with a $107,200 expenditure on street lights. An internal report also criticizes the city for failing to complete its "evaluations." The Newark crime rate has moved up 4.7 per cent.

-- Portland, Ore., was granted $5,471,581 for adult corrections projects. Yet as of Sept. 30, 1974, according to a report buried in the files, "only $15,340 or .3 per cent of the total ... had been expended." The city spent another $173,000 for street lighting. The crime rate, nevertheless, skyrocketed 57.6 per cent.

-- The same report charges that St. Louis rushed ahead with projects "until the budget was exhausted, independent of any community input, coordianted master plan or baseline data." The crime rate, accordingly, zoomed 55.9 per cent.

Footnote: An official spokesman explained to our associate, Bob Owens, that the money was supposed to provide "more bang for the buck." The spokesman insisted that there had been "individual project successes" and a "number of instances" of reduced crime goals.

AGNEW MUZZLED: In an earlier column, we reported the backstage events that forced Spiro Agnew out of the vice presidency and lost him the chance to become President.

According to sources close to him, Agnew feels he was euchred out of office by former President Richard Nixon and is eager to tell the story.

However, the former Vice President is "muzzled," said a friend, for another four years. Because criminal charges still hang over Agnew's head, he won't be free to publish his book until the statute of limitations runs out.

Meanwhile his attorney and erstwhile Nixon intimate, Charles Colson, has written a book, which discusses Agnew's downfall. We have had access to the page proofs.

As Vice President, Agnew sought to be impeached by Congress rather than indicted by a grand jury. Colson claims that President Nixon worked behind the scenes on Capitol Hill to undermine Agnew. "White House lobbyists," wrote Colson, "had cut the ground out from under their own Vice President."

Dr. Lamb

Low blood pressure not the problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 31-year-old male and have low blood pressure. Also, my average pulse rate is around 48 beats per minute. Along with this periodically, I have trouble breathing. The shortness of breath is accompanied by sharp pains, either in the chest, legs or arms.

Last year I had a severe attack of this breathing problem and spent six days in the hospital where I had several different tests run concerning my heart. All of these proved negative, and the doctor said my heart appeared to be strong and without damage, even though the pulse rate was about the slowest he had ever seen.

Are these problems in any way related and does my pulse rate seem rather slow? What do you advise? Please comment on low pressure since everything I hear or read is about high blood pressure.

DEAR READER — Since your doctor said you didn't have heart disease your slow heart rate in a man as young as you probably means you are in excellent physical condition. Roger Bannister's heart rate was 38 per minute when he was fully trained for the 4-minute mile. And, I have seen slow heart rates, at rest, in almost all endurance athletes I have examined. It is quite common. You are not the least bit unusual in that regard.

Low blood pressure, if it is not caused by a specific illness such as tuberculosis or adrenal gland disease or anemia, which your doctor has probably ruled out, is a wonderful thing to have. Get down on your knees and thank God you have it. As long as it is high enough to prevent you from having fainting problems, it won't cause you any difficulty at all and will decrease your likelihood of having heart disease or vascular disease later in life.

Incidentally, we consider any pressure of 90 over 60 as perfectly normal for unrestricted flying duties, including flying high performance jet aircraft. So, you can see that this is on a pretty solid basis. This, too, is most likely an indication of good physical fitness.

For more information on what determines blood pressure levels and what they mean send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Those breathing spells are not related to either your slow heart or low blood pressure. And, those sharp pains are not what you see with heart disease. More often these are related to anxiety, perhaps anxiety over your health status and not knowing exactly what they mean.

My guess is that you are overbreathing, hyperventilating. When you do this you blow off too much carbon dioxide and upset your chemical balance. This can cause you to feel bad and cause numbness, tingling and a variety of symptoms. Since you have already had a good examination for these problems I would suggest that if you start to have this feeling, consciously breathe very slowly and shallowly and see if you can overcome the problem. Or, you could use an old trick and breathe into a brown paper bag over your mouth and nose. That will sometimes trap enough carbon dioxide to enable your body to readjust your chemistry. Do not use a plastic bag!

Telephone patrol contacts elderly

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Mrs. Benjamin Rauworth shudders at the memory of an elderly neighbor who lay helplessly on a floor of her home after suffering a stroke.

"She was there for five days," said Mrs. Rauworth. "She tried throwing everything at a window to attract attention, even her false teeth."

The woman was rescued, by chance, when someone at last knocked at her door.

But chance isn't good enough, said Mrs. Rauworth. As a safeguard against such incidents, she and about 20 other volunteers have organized a telephone patrol to make contact each day with elderly and handicapped persons in their neighborhoods.

"We let the phone ring 10 times," she explained. "If there is no answer, we call someone to go to the home and inquire."

The service is called Telephone Life Line and is part of a program that supporters hope to spread nationwide. Janesville is the only Wisconsin community in which the project is currently operating.

Mrs. Fred Sweeney, who spends most of her waking hours in a wheelchair, said the daily telephone calls have become a welcome way of life.

"My husband and I are both visually handicapped, and it is nice to have someone interested in us," she said.

Despite its benefits, Mrs. Rauworth said, many shut-ins are reluctant to admit they should be on the call list.

"It is a problem to get people who are alone to get confident enough to call us in the first place," she said. "Some folks like to think they are independent."

Church claims rock music 'appeals to flesh'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Damning rock music for its "appeal to the flesh," a Baptist church in Tallahassee6 has begun a campaign to put the torch to records by Elton John, the Rolling Stones and other rock stars.

Some $2,200 worth of records were tossed into a bonfire this week after church officials labeled the music immoral.

The Rev. Charles Boykin, associate pastor and youth director at the Lakewood Baptist Church, said he had seen statistics which showed "of 1,000 girls who became pregnant out of wedlock, 984 committed fornication while rock music was being played."

He said he could not remember the source of the statistics.

Boykin said Friday the main thing wrong with rock music is its sensual beat.

"There's a rhythm to our bodies and when we hear music with a similar rhythm we respond to that beat. Too much of this can affect you in the wrong way," he said, adding that even some gospel music can lead youths astray.

"There's bad music all around us. It's not only rock music. Even gospel rock has that beat," he said.

At a Wednesday night bonfire, conducted after prayer services at the independent Baptist church, teen-age members of the church were asked to bring Top 40 records which they felt unleashed unrestrained carnal appetites.

"Teen-agers in the church felt they couldn't give the records away," Boykin said. "As one of them put it, 'That would be like giving dope away.'"

Boykin, who had preached a 1½-hour sermon on the topic, said he was gratified by the response of the church's young members.

"I've asked young people what they like about that type of music and they always tell me the same thing: 'Because it feels good.' That's all they will say," he said.

Boykin hopes to expand the crusade to other churches. "During the days ahead, we Americans need to be listening to more patriotic music," he said.

Authentic safe cracker hired by film industry

LOS ANGELES AP) — The film industry has hired all kinds of technical advisers, but this may be a first: an authentic safecracker.

The movie is "Harry and Walter Go to New York." The title pair are James Caan and Elliott Gould, small-time vaudevillians who encounter a master crook, Michael Caine, in turn-of-the-century New York.

The suave Caine is a professor of sorts, operating a school for budding safecrackers.

For authenticity, Columbia Pictures sought the services of H. (for Harry) Don Waller, safecracker extraordinaire, whose own career would supply a season of plots for a television cop series.

Waller, now a lecturer and drug-treatment expert in Atlanta, is a ruddy-faced, strongly built man of 64 who talks openly of the profession that led him to spend half his life in prison.

"At one time, I had a $300-a-day habit," he says. "That was the street value of the drugs. I got it cheaper, because I was also a dealer."

Director Mark Rydell has consulted Waller about the mechanics of the safecracking school, and the expert has also advised the special effects department on the conversion of dynamite to nitroglycerine. Waller is a stickler for accuracy, and he scoffs at safecracking movies of the past.

"All this business about Jimmy Valentine sandpapering his fingers or someone listening through a stethoscope is pre bunk," he remarked. "There is nothing inside the safe that drops into place. So there's nothing to hear or feel."

Waller is alsoamused by movie scenes in which safes are broken open by huge explosions.

"That's one way of doing it, but you'll also disintegrate everything you want inside the safe," he said.

The case of the abducted criminal

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Willie chose a life of crime primarily because the hours were optional. What wasn't optional, however, were the severe penalties he faced if caught. Consequently, after pulling off several financially successful capers, he decided to take off for Chile until things cooled down.

Midway to his destination, however, twodetectives who had been working on the capers caught up with Willie. And they spirited him back to the United States where he had committed his crimes. Convicted on all charges, Willie appealed to a higher court demanding his immediate release.

"The trial was illegal," he insisted. "I was kidnapeds by those two detectives and brought back against my will. It was a plain case of abduction."

"How we got Willie back," retorted the prosecuting attorney, "is unimportant and has no bearing on his conviction. The only question to be decided is did Willie get a fair trial. And the answer is it couldn't have been my fairer had it been presided over by Little Orphan Annie."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you set Willie free because he had been abducted.

This is how the judge ruled: NO. The judge held that the power of a court to try a person for a crime is not impaired by the fact that he may have been brought within the court's jurisdiction by reason of forcible abduction. All that is required, noted the judge, is that he be given a fair trial.

Dr. Lamb

Low blood pressure not the problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 31-year-old male and have low blood pressure. Also, my average pulse rate is around 48 beats per minute. Along with this periodically, I have trouble breathing. The shortness of breath is accompanied by sharp pains, either in the chest, legs or arms.

Last year I had a severe attack of this breathing problem and spent six days in the hospital where I had several different tests run concerning my heart. All of these proved negative, and the doctor said my heart appeared to be strong and without damage, even though the pulse rate was about the slowest he had ever seen.

Are these problems in any way related and does my pulse rate seem rather slow? What do you advise? Please comment on low pressure since everything I hear or read is about high blood pressure.

DEAR READER — Since your doctor said you didn't have heart disease your slow heart rate in a man as young as you probably means you are in excellent physical condition. Roger Bannister's heart rate was 38 per minute when he was fully trained for the 4-minute mile. And, I have seen slow heart rates, at rest, in almost all endurance athletes I have examined. It is quite common. You are not the least bit unusual in that regard.

Low blood pressure, if it is not caused by a specific illness such as tuberculosis or adrenal gland disease or anemia, which your doctor has probably ruled out, is a wonderful thing to have. Get down on your knees and thank God you have it. As long as it is high enough to prevent you from having fainting problems, it won't cause you any difficulty at all and will decrease your likelihood of having heart disease or vascular disease later in life.

Incidentally, we consider any pressure of 90 over 60 as perfectly normal for unrestricted flying duties, including flying high performance jet aircraft. So, you can see that this is on a pretty solid basis. This, too, is most likely an indication of good physical fitness.

For more information on what determines blood pressure levels and what they mean send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Those breathing spells are not related to either your slow heart or low blood pressure. And, those sharp pains are not what you see with heart disease. More often these are related to anxiety, perhaps anxiety over your health status and not knowing exactly what they mean.

My guess is that you are overbreathing, hyperventilating. When you do this you blow off too much carbon dioxide and upset your chemical balance. This can cause you to feel bad and cause numbness, tingling and a variety of symptoms. Since you have already had a good examination for these problems I would suggest that if you start to have this feeling, consciously breathe very slowly and shallowly and see if you can overcome the problem. Or, you could use an old trick and breathe into a brown paper bag over your mouth and nose. That will sometimes trap enough carbon dioxide to enable your body to readjust your chemistry. Do not use a plastic bag!

Telephone patrol contacts elderly

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Mrs. Benjamin Rauworth shudders at the memory of an elderly neighbor who lay helplessly on a floor of her home after suffering a stroke.

"She was there for five days," said Mrs. Rauworth. "She tried throwing everything at a window to attract attention, even her false teeth."

The woman was rescued, by chance, when someone at last knocked at her door.

But chance isn't good enough, said Mrs. Rauworth. As a safeguard against such incidents, she and about 20 other volunteers have organized a telephone patrol to make contact each day with elderly and handicapped persons in their neighborhoods.

"We let the phone ring 10 times," she explained. "If there is no answer, we call someone to go to the home and inquire."

The service is called Telephone Life Line and is part of a program that supporters hope to spread nationwide. Janesville is the only Wisconsin community in which the project is currently operating.

Mrs. Fred Sweeney, who spends most of her waking hours in a wheelchair, said the daily telephone calls have become a welcome way of life.

"My husband and I are both visually handicapped, and it is nice to have someone interested in us," she said.

Despite its benefits, Mrs. Rauworth said, many shut-ins are reluctant to admit they should be on the call list.

"It is a problem to get people who are alone to get confident enough to call us in the first place," she said. "Some folks like to think they are independent."

Church claims rock music 'appeals to flesh'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Damning rock music for its "appeal to the flesh," a Baptist church in Tallahassee6 has begun a campaign to put the torch to records by Elton John, the Rolling Stones and other rock stars.

Some $2,200 worth of records were tossed into a bonfire this week after church officials labeled the music immoral.

The Rev. Charles Boykin, associate pastor and youth director at the Lakewood Baptist Church, said he had seen statistics which showed "of 1,000 girls who became pregnant out of wedlock, 984 committed fornication while rock music was being played."

He said he could not remember the source of the statistics.

Boykin said Friday the main thing wrong with rock music is its sensual beat.

"There's a rhythm to our bodies and when we hear music with a similar rhythm we respond to that beat. Too much of this can affect you in the wrong way," he said, adding that even some gospel music can lead youths astray.

"more spice than everything nice"

Mrs. Dean chooses motherhood, bread

NEW YORK (AP) — To some she's "super stew" — blonde, eyelash-batting beauty who captivated television Watergate viewers. But as she talks quietly of baking bread and having babies she seems more like "just plain Mo."

"Mo" — Maureen Dean — drinks milk, wears a simple cross around her neck and smilingly asks a photographer not to take her picture while she smokes a cigarette because "it doesn't seem ladylike."

"Mo," wife of former presidential counsel John Dean, has written a book, "Mo — A Woman's View of Watergate," and has begun a six week tour promoting the account of their Watergate ordeal.

"I want children. I want a family. John and I are both ready now," says the 30-yearold former airlines stewardess who sat quietly beside her husband, the star witness in the Senate Watergate hearings.

They live in a two-bedroom house in a canyon, overlooking the smog of Los Angeles. He has been working full-time on his Watergate book and planning others.

"I'm decorating the house, lunching with friends, playing tennis, going to exercise class, entertaining and reading a couple of books a week, mostly gothic novels and biography," she says.

While Dean was imprisoned for his Watergate role, she began her book. It opens with the night she met him on a blind date and follows their love affair and marriage through the death throes of the Nixon administration.

"I think Watergate made our marriage stronger and better," she says. "We know more about each other and confide more in each other. We're really happy now, we're together all the time. We have a normal life. That was never possible in Washington."

During the Watergate hearings, "Mo" was known to television audiences across the nation as a daily fashion plate, her good looks accentuated by her white-blonde hair pulled sharply into a bun.

"Over-all, I could do without the attention," she says, adding that friendly people still sometimes stop her on the street. "There's enough vanity in me so when it's good I enjoy it; when it's bad, I don't."

Today she seems like a demure homemaker, friendly and anxious to please, a little nervous. Her lightly streaked hair falls to her shoulders. She wears a mauve skirt and silk blouse with several gold chains and the cross. She sips milk.

She says she has not seriously considered getting a job because she doesn't know what she could do and would rather be a mother.

"That time in Washington was horrible," she says, "but now I appreciate every day and the simple things, even housework and cooking.

"I baked my first loaf of bread the other day. It was braided white bread, and it was so good and I enjoyed creating something with my hands."

Here's a basic mailing schedule for all Santa's helpers:

— End of November: absolute deadline for all packages going to Alaska or Hawaii by surface mailing, packages by airlift to Canada and the Arctic and airmail packages to the Near East, Far East and Central and South America.

— First week of December: mail international greeting cards and parcels to Africa, Near and Far East, surface mail for the entire U.S.A. (including Alaska and Hawaii) and airmail parcels and cards to Canada, Europe and Mexico.

—Third week in December: this is the absolute deadline for all airmail cards and packages in the U.S.A.

Ann Landers

Family man is hung up on sneak reading porn

Dear Ann Landers: I work Saturdays for a friend of my father's. He is known around town as a very decent family man, has a great wife and four good kids.

It seems that ehenever I walk into this man's office he is reading pornographic books or magazines. When he sees me coming he tries to ditch the porn under worksheets or other office material, but it's obvious what he's up to.

In every other way he is 100 per cent A-OK. I have become so upset about this that it has me confused about lots of other things. I am 17. This man is 42. Will you help me sort out my thoughts? -- Shocksville

Dear Shock: Some people eat octopus, chocolate- covered bees, and eels. Tastes vary in literature as well as in food.

What this man enjoys reading has nothing whatever to do with you. If he's hung up on porn that's HIS problem. I see no reason to make it yours.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is suing me for divorce. His grounds -- cruel and inhuman treatment. He says I am always picking on him.

What do you think of a man who refuses to change his underclothes for weeks at a time, won't brush his teeth, will not make any decisions on his own and then criticizes me because I made the wrong one?

He turns to his mother and tells her everything that happens in our house, then she comes back to me and I have to discuss with her a lot of things that are none of her business. My husband cheats when we play gin rummy, hides candy and cigarets all over the place, hasn't given me a compliment in years and seldom has anything of interest to say. He doesn't lift a finger around the house to help, yet complains if the place isn't spic and span. I've always had to do everything myself. And now HE is divorcing me. Please help me understand it. ++Baffled In Bakersfield

Dear Baff: Never mind trying to understand it. Just be glad you're out of it. Your marriage sounds like a nightmare. You should be happy to be free of that oddball. Count your blessings, Sweetie.

Dear Ann Landers: I was invited to an engagement party in June. I gave the bride a $40 coffee maker. She broke the engagement six months later. The engagement gift was not returned.

This girl is now engaged again -- to a different guy. I have been invited to the engagement party. Will I be expected to give another present? What do you think? -- Twice Tapped

Dear Twice: The bride-to-be should have returned all the gifts when the engagement was broken. You need not bring another.

Incidentally, a $40 coffee maker is more like a wedding present than a shower gift . Unless you are in the wedding party, I'd say you went overboard.

CONFIDENTIAL to Did You Say It: Yes, I did, and I will gladly say it again. "Alcoholism, which often masquerades as social drinking, has ruined more marriages, careers, healthy bodies and fine minds than any single element known to man."

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious - lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120

Club happenings

Woman's Club

Detective Sgt. Dan Hinton of the Criminal Investigation Division of the Sikeston police force and Lt. Walter Wilson, a Sikeston police juvenile officer, spoke recently to the Woman's Club in the Sikeston Library on the use and abuse of drugs and alcohol.

Sgt. Hinton said there is a wide use of amphetamines as thesse are prescribed by doctors to help people lose weight for 30 days at a time. He said many problems arise from the careless placing of bottles of pills within easy reach of children who may easily take an overdose becaus of the colors or because they see parents using them frequently. Children between the ages of 9 and 12 are particularly attracted to these and other drugs used around the house, such as those used for headaches, etc.

Under the heading of barbiturates, the so-called downers, affect the central nervous system. When taken in large doses than prescribed, barbiturates are addictive, he said.

Hallucinogens are not generally used in this area as young people are fearful of them. It has been known, however, that youngsters have been tricked into the use of them.

Sgt. Hinton referred to the dangers of LSD and the possibility of trips which can recur from 18 months to 15 years from the date of the first one. He sighted a case that was familiar nationwide—the case of Art Linkletter's daughter who died because of a recurring trip. Under the indluence of this drug a person could try to fly like a bird or try to hurt someone. If the trip occurred years later when flying a plane, swimming, driving a car or boat, results could be disastrous.

Marijuana is addictive on a psychological basis, he said. After trying it for a while there is a strong urge to try something stronger or in increasing amounts. It is then that such persons look for harder drugs. The average ages for the use of these drugs range from 13 to about 22, he noted.

An interesting display of types of drugs, including a simulated plant of marijuana, confiscated water pipes and appliances used in this area was shown by Sgt. Hinton.

Sgt. Hinton said he was against the legalization of marijuana as its use could lead to the use of harder drugs. He stated further that the nation has nine million alcoholics who are on the roads of America and he is against adding nine million more drivers who are on marijuana.

Lt. Wilson spoke on the juvenile alcohol problem which was rapidly on the increase. He pointed out several cases, one of which was that of a boy under the age of 12, whose parents had left him alone while they partied elsewhere. He got together with two other boys who had also been left alone. At their urging, the younger boy drank too much liquor and was found later in a dazed condition downtown.

In facing up to the situation of juvenile drinkers, the biggest problem seems to be the parents, who leave liquor within easy reach of youngsters while the parents go out for an evening or out of town. Somestimes parents of young children do not know where their children are or who they are with, he said.

Following a question-and-answer period, Lt. Wilson mentioned that ome people believe the police department closes at 6 p.m. He made a point of asking that members of the club spread the word around that the Sikeston police department operates on a 24-hour schedule and they welcome calls from citizens who see or experience something suspicious.

Consumers buying trees pay more to save later

New York, pre-Christmas '75-- To beat the recession, thrift-minded buyers of that modern Yuletide perennial, the artificial Christmas tree, are paying more in order to spend less.

That's the conclusion of a survey of the tree-buying habits of some 35,000 consumers polled by American Tree & Wereath, the largest tree maker, a division of American Technical Industries, Inc.

Significantly, almost two-thirds said they paid over $30 for a manmade tree, compared with $10 to $15 for a cut tree.

"The swing to higher-priced artificial trees is really a matter of economics," declares Donald W. Warning, American Tree's marketing head.

"What it all boils down to is that dollar-conscious consumers are discovering that paying a little more now is going to save them a lot later on."

Two out of three buyers were buying artificial trees for the first time and over half of them were budget-minded homemakers under 35 years old, according to the survey.

In contrast to cut trees, which are perishable, the manmade variety, Warning observes, can be stored and reused year after year, resulting in substantial savings.

Apart from their economy, factory-made trees are winning the nod from consumers for their safety, convenience and other down-to-earth advantages.

The trees are flame-retardant and shed-proof. These qualities ranked second and third, the survey showed, in turning buyers toward artificial trees.

Next in favor were their full-branched symmetry and the wide variety of sizes and shapes they come in. American Tree & Wreath alone, Warning notes, produces over a hundred different models--from table-top styles to stately 20-footers for display in churches, schools and other public places.

Today's best seller continues to be the 6½-foot Mountain King, a tree that seems to embody the virtues consumers want most in an artificial tree.

The Mountain King, which simulates natural-tree fullness, is composed of clusters of branches that hook onto a center pole. It can be assembled in about five minutes--a fraction of the time required for conventional trees.

The growing popularity of artificial trees, combined with the recession and the coming Bicentennial, is likely to inspire a host of new holiday habits, as well as a change in buying trends, Warning believes.

Manmade trees are helping, for one thing, to make the Yuletide season longer. Because they aren't perishable like cut trees, the artificial kind can be put up at any time. As a result, more and more people are putting theirs up right after Thanksgiving and extending the holiday well past New Year's, Warning reports.

With their near-perfect shapes and sag-proof, steel-wire branches, the simulated varieties, he explains, can support more ornamentation than the same-size live tree, encouraging the use of more decoration than before.

Miniature lights, once considered only a novelty, are now strongly favored for artificial trees, Warning says, because they cost less to use than standard lights. It's not uncommon to find 250 or more of the miniatures on a 7½-footer, he observes, especially since they burn less electricity than one 50-watt bulb.

Traditionalists are even wiring their manmade trees permanently. On the Mountain King, for example, the technique is to wire each section separately. That way, he says, trees and lights can be taken down, stored away and re-assembled--all in one piece.

Despite the trend toward the modern in selecting a tree, the spirit of Christmases past appears to be dictating the choice of ornaments, according to Warning.

People are turning to American folk art, Victoriana and other symbols of tradition for inspiration in trimming their trees, he says.

Specifically, the idea these days is to decorate trees around certain themes. With the Bicentennial uppermost in mind, for example, you might use corn-husk dolls, tiny wooden spinning wheels and calico apples, he suggests.

The Heritage House reminds senior citizens interested in taking the Hawaiian trip that reservation are due in the office by Dec. 1. A signed application and deposit also is required.

Girl Scouts relate trips made in U.S.

The annual meeting of the Cotton Boll Girl Scout Council held at the Christian Church in Poplar Bluff recently was attended by a large represeentation from throughout the council area.

Seat belts were fastened and the guests aboard Jet Number 1975 took off on a flight that touched down at points of interest throughout the United States. With Elizabeth Welborn of Booomfield as a narrator, assisted by the 1975 Wider Opportunity Council participants, the guests were given a guided tour of points and places in which the Cotton Boll Girl Scouts enjoyed fun-filled, exciting, learning experiences last summer. A large map of the United States, flanked by large Girl Scout emblems decoupaged with pictures of teen-age girls involved in youthful activities, formed the background as well as providing a "screen" for the slide presentation which added to the interest of the flight.

Sara Jane Brink of Charleston vividly described her experiences reliving the days of "forgotten people's remembered times" as the jet landed in Madison, Wisc. Sara is a ninth grade student and "digging into the cultures of by-gone peoples and places" was an experience she will never forget.

Kathy Bolin found walking through the pages of early American history while attending the "Boston Beans and battle greens" event in Boston during the Bicentennial year a very special happening.

Allegra Morris and Amy Bass of Sikeston were involved in conservation programs, banded turtles and studied endangered species of birds on one of the three great shelling beaches of the world. This rare and beautiful island of Sanibel on coastal Florida must be preserved.

Nancy Demaree and Nannette Higgins of Malden learned of the greatness of "Ranching southwestern style" by visiting a working ranch and horseback riding through the sage, highlighted by tours of historical San Antonio and Fort Conchoi in Texas.

Laura Lea, Rosemary Barr, Michelle Sargent, Christi McDougal, Tory Robertson, Kim Yarbrough and Mary Waters of Sikeston came to know the beauty, as well as the rugged terrain of Wyoming while attending the "Wyoming trek". They were involved in the world of archaeology, geology, photography as well as backpacking, fishing, and horse back riding.

Melissa Lea, Michelle Powell and Tammy Bell of Sikeston; Ivy Clark of Wyatt; Kathy Rumelhart of Puxico; and Kathy Bolin of Caruthersville, through attendance of "Missouri Bootheel Kicks", learned of the historical background, the agricultural richness,and the natural beauty of our own southeast Missouri.

Ilena Aslin of Sikeston council executive director and Mrs. Les Heise of Malden, first vice president, pointed out the highlights of 1975 from the council as well as from a national standpoint.. an increase in membership, an increase in event praticipation, an increase in attendance of an established camp at Latonka, as well as day camp and the broadening of the Girl Scout program.

Mrs. James Ponder of Charleston was elected second vice president and Mrs. Harold Treasure of Kennett was elected secretary of the council board of directors. Mrs. Bob Clausier of Caruthersville; Mrs. H. W. Droke of Hornersville; Mrs. Bill Rhodes of Hayti; Mrs. T. A. Brown Jr. of Kennett, Paul Schuerenberg of Essex; Mrs. Thurston Hill of Dexter; Mrs. Bill Lewis of Sikeston; Mrs. Charles Brandon of Dexter; Mrs. Paul Schuerenberg of Essex; Mrs. Fred Owens of Dexter; and Elizabeth Welborn of Bloomfield were elected to the board of directors as members-at-large.

Mrs. Bill Moore of Caruthersville and Mrs. Marvin Barbour of Poplar Bluff were elected as nonboard members of the nominating committee. Board members of the 1976-78 nominating committee are Mrs. Paul Miltenberger of Kennett and Mrs. Charles Brandon of Dexter.

Neighborhood awards for leadership were presented by Mrs. Barbour to Mrs. Bernard Latassy of Poplar Bluff; Mrs. Carter Fenton of Charleston; Mrs. Robert McGhee of Essex; Mrs. Madge Camp of Malden; Mrs. Ronald Faries of Puxico; Mrs. Dale Lanner of Bernie and Mrs. Keith Duncan of Sikeston.

"more spice than everything nice"

Mrs. Dean chooses motherhood, bread

NEW YORK (AP) — To some she's "super stew" — blonde, eyelash-batting beauty who captivated television Watergate viewers. But as she talks quietly of baking bread and having babies she seems more like "just plain Mo."

"Mo" — Maureen Dean — drinks milk, wears a simple cross around her neck and smilingly asks a photographer not to take her picture while she smokes a cigarette because "it doesn't seem ladylike."

"Mo," wife of former presidential counsel John Dean, has written a book, "Mo — A Woman's View of Watergate," and has begun a six week tour promoting the account of their Watergate ordeal.

"I want children. I want a family. John and I are both ready now," says the 30-yearold former airlines stewardess who sat quietly beside her husband, the star witness in the Senate Watergate hearings.

They live in a two-bedroom house in a canyon, overlooking the smog of Los Angeles. He has been working full-time on his Watergate book and planning others.

"I'm decorating the house, lunching with friends, playing tennis, going to exercise class, entertaining and reading a couple of books a week, mostly gothic novels and biography," she says.

While Dean was imprisoned for his Watergate role, she began her book. It opens with the night she met him on a blind date and follows their love affair and marriage through the death throes of the Nixon administration.

"I think Watergate made our marriage stronger and better," she says. "We know more about each other and confide more in each other. We're really happy now, we're together all the time. We have a normal life. That was never possible in Washington."

During the Watergate hearings, "Mo" was known to television audiences across the nation as a daily fashion plate, her good looks accentuated by her white-blonde hair pulled sharply into a bun.

"Over-all, I could do without the attention," she says, adding that friendly people still sometimes stop her on the street. "There's enough vanity in me so when it's good I enjoy it; when it's bad, I don't."

Today she seems like a demure homemaker, friendly and anxious to please, a little nervous. Her lightly streaked hair falls to her shoulders. She wears a mauve skirt and silk blouse with several gold chains and the cross. She sips milk.

She says she has not seriously considered getting a job because she doesn't know what she could do and would rather be a mother.

"That time in Washington was horrible," she says, "but now I appreciate every day and the simple things, even housework and cooking.

"I baked my first loaf of bread the other day. It was braided white bread, and it was so good and I enjoyed creating something with my hands."

Basic mailing schedule keeps gift-giving on time

Here's a basic mailing schedule for all Santa's helpers:

— End of November: absolute deadline for all packages going to Alaska or Hawaii by surface mailing, packages by airlift to Canada and the Arctic and airmail packages to the Near East, Far East and Central and South America.

— First week of December: mail international greeting cards and parcels to Africa, Near and Far East, surface mail for the entire U.S.A. (including Alaska and Hawaii) and airmail parcels and cards to Canada, Europe and Mexico.

—Third week in December: this is the absolute deadline for all airmail cards and packages in the U.S.A.

Ann Landers

Family man is hung up on sneak reading porn

Dear Ann Landers: I work Saturdays for a friend of my father's. He is known around town as a very decent family man, has a great wife and four good kids.

It seems that ehenever I walk into this man's office he is reading pornographic books or magazines. When he sees me coming he tries to ditch the porn under worksheets or other office material, but it's obvious what he's up to.

In every other way he is 100 per cent A-OK. I have become so upset about this that it has me confused about lots of other things. I am 17. This man is 42. Will you help me sort out my thoughts? -- Shocksville

Dear Shock: Some people eat octopus, chocolate- covered bees, and eels. Tastes vary in literature as well as in food.

What this man enjoys reading has nothing whatever to do with you. If he's hung up on porn that's HIS problem. I see no reason to make it yours.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is suing me for divorce. His grounds -- cruel and inhuman treatment. He says I am always picking on him.

What do you think of a man who refuses to change his underclothes for weeks at a time, won't brush his teeth, will not make any decisions on his own and then criticizes me because I made the wrong one?

He turns to his mother and tells her everything that happens in our house, then she comes back to me and I have to discuss with her a lot of things that are none of her business. My husband cheats when we play gin rummy, hides candy and cigarets all over the place, hasn't given me a compliment in years and seldom has anything of interest to say. He doesn't lift a finger around the house to help, yet complains if the place isn't spic and span. I've always had to do everything myself. And now HE is divorcing me. Please help me understand it. ++Baffled In Bakersfield

Dear Baff: Never mind trying to understand it. Just be glad you're out of it. Your marriage sounds like a nightmare. You should be happy to be free of that oddball. Count your blessings, Sweetie.

Dear Ann Landers: I was invited to an engagement party in June. I gave the bride a $40 coffee maker. She broke the engagement six months later. The engagement gift was not returned.

This girl is now engaged again -- to a different guy. I have been invited to the engagement party. Will I be expected to give another present? What do you think? -- Twice Tapped

Dear Twice: The bride-to-be should have returned all the gifts when the engagement was broken. You need not bring another.

Incidentally, a $40 coffee maker is more like a wedding present than a shower gift . Unless you are in the wedding party, I'd say you went overboard.

CONFIDENTIAL to Did You Say It: Yes, I did, and I will gladly say it again. "Alcoholism, which often masquerades as social drinking, has ruined more marriages, careers, healthy bodies and fine minds than any single element known to man."

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious - lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120

Hutchcraft is also a 1974 graduate of Dexter High School and attended Three Rivers Community College at Poplar Bluff. He is employed by Scott County Milling Co.

A Dec. 26 wedding at 7:30 p.m. in the First Missionary Baptist Church is planned.

Club happenings

Woman's Club

Detective Sgt. Dan Hinton of the Criminal Investigation Division of the Sikeston police force and Lt. Walter Wilson, a Sikeston police juvenile officer, spoke recently to the Woman's Club in the Sikeston Library on the use and abuse of drugs and alcohol.

Sgt. Hinton said there is a wide use of amphetamines as thesse are prescribed by doctors to help people lose weight for 30 days at a time. He said many problems arise from the careless placing of bottles of pills within easy reach of children who may easily take an overdose becaus of the colors or because they see parents using them frequently. Children between the ages of 9 and 12 are particularly attracted to these and other drugs used around the house, such as those used for headaches, etc.

Under the heading of barbiturates, the so-called downers, affect the central nervous system. When taken in large doses than prescribed, barbiturates are addictive, he said.

Hallucinogens are not generally used in this area as young people are fearful of them. It has been known, however, that youngsters have been tricked into the use of them.

Sgt. Hinton referred to the dangers of LSD and the possibility of trips which can recur from 18 months to 15 years from the date of the first one. He sighted a case that was familiar nationwide—the case of Art Linkletter's daughter who died because of a recurring trip. Under the indluence of this drug a person could try to fly like a bird or try to hurt someone. If the trip occurred years later when flying a plane, swimming, driving a car or boat, results could be disastrous.

Marijuana is addictive on a psychological basis, he said. After trying it for a while there is a strong urge to try something stronger or in increasing amounts. It is then that such persons look for harder drugs. The average ages for the use of these drugs range from 13 to about 22, he noted.

An interesting display of types of drugs, including a simulated plant of marijuana, confiscated water pipes and appliances used in this area was shown by Sgt. Hinton.

Sgt. Hinton said he was against the legalization of marijuana as its use could lead to the use of harder drugs. He stated further that the nation has nine million alcoholics who are on the roads of America and he is against adding nine million more drivers who are on marijuana.

Lt. Wilson spoke on the juvenile alcohol problem which was rapidly on the increase. He pointed out several cases, one of which was that of a boy under the age of 12, whose parents had left him alone while they partied elsewhere. He got together with two other boys who had also been left alone. At their urging, the younger boy drank too much liquor and was found later in a dazed condition downtown.

In facing up to the situation of juvenile drinkers, the biggest problem seems to be the parents, who leave liquor within easy reach of youngsters while the parents go out for an evening or out of town. Somestimes parents of young children do not know where their children are or who they are with, he said.

Following a question-and-answer period, Lt. Wilson mentioned that ome people believe the police department closes at 6 p.m. He made a point of asking that members of the club spread the word around that the Sikeston police department operates on a 24-hour schedule and they welcome calls from citizens who see or experience something suspicious.

New York, pre-Christmas '75-- To beat the recession, thrift-minded buyers of that modern Yuletide perennial, the artificial Christmas tree, are paying more in order to spend less.

Six prep tournaments provide fans with choice of action

By BILL HARRISON

Next week can easily be labeled "tournament week" in southeast Missouri as no less than six are in the surrounding area. Oran, Bernie, Woodland, Sikeston, Farmington and South Pemiscot are the sites.

All five tournaments in the area will have some interesting matchups with top teams entered in each one.

At Oran Scott Central and Kelly are top two teams which has been the pattern for the past three or four years. Kelly has won the tournament the past couple of years but had to go into double overtime last year to take the cahmpionship from Scott Central.

This year the Braves are seeded number one and the Hawks are second. Scott Central has a good running team with ability to score but must get more defense than has been shown if they are to upend Kelly. The Hawks are capable of putting five players in double figures any game.

The Hawks are deeper in bench strength and this should give coach Nick Lanpher's Kelly five the edge despite the seedings.

WOODLAND — The Notre Dame Bulldogs and Advance Hornets have shared the championship of this tournament for the past few seasons as the other teams proved too weak to compete in the past years but coach Kevin Arand has built a good basketball program the past two seasons at Woodland and the Cardinals may have quite abit to say about the winner this season. Advance is the defending champion. Notre Dame is seeded number one this year with Delta second seeded. The Bobcats of coach Paul Hale are 3-0 so far but haven't played the likes of Notre Dame. Advance is trying to get their injured ready to play again and their success in the tourney depends on the readiness of Steve Cookson. If Cookson comes around in time the Hornets will give the top two teams plenty of trouble before it's over. Advance is seeded third and Woodland fourth.

BERNIE — The Puxico Indians are seeded first in this one but the way coach Pete Townsends' team has been playing fourth seeded Bernie or seconded Bloomfield may pull off the upset. Bernie, under coach Bill Whitmer has been playing good defensive ball and has won some close games already as a result. The Mules defeated seconded Bloomfield Tuesday night in the last minute. Bernie is certainly the darkhorse of the tourney.

SOUTH PEMISCOT — The Kennett Indians are seeded number one with the Bulldogs second. Senath-Hornersville is seeded third and Cooter fourth. The Indians should have trouble only with Senath but should win easily.

SIKESTON — The Lilbourn Panthers are the top seeded team and the defending champion. The Panthers have won the event for the past two seasons.

Charleston is seeded second with Sikeston third. Malden is seeded fourth. Lilbourn should take the championship. Charleston and Sikeston will have to battle each other before getting the chance to take on the Panthers so neither team will be able to look past the other.

SHS tourney will be strong

By DALE L. FORBIS

"We think we've got the strongest tournament around," said SHS Principal Bob Buchanan, talking about the upcoming Sikeston Invitational. His sentiments were echoed by varsity coach Clayton "Buddy" Spears.

The very tournament bracket lends credence to these astute individual's respective opinions. There are two state tournament winners of a year ago on hand, neither looking a great deal weaker, and three of the district's four regional winners in attendance. Sleepers? Well there are a handful.

Two-time state champion Lilbourn will be shooting for its third Sikeston tournament title in a row and it should be tougher this time, although it hasn't been easy for them yet. Two years ago, Hayti missed an overwhelming upset by a single point and last year the Panthers won the title game from Sikeston by just four. Hayti left the tournament this year, but Sikeston is back with potentially its finest aggregation in years. And, Hayti has been replaced by two newcomers to the week-long affair, fourth-seeded Malden and East Prairie.

Action in the spacious fieldhouse is slated for Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, with the usual Friday date open because at least two of the teams have games scheduled that night. On Monday night, at 6:00 p.m., 1-0 Malden opposes what may be the best unseeded team in any tournament anywhere, the Poplar Bluff Mules. PBHS lost four starters off of an up-and-down varsity squad of last year, but coach Jim King has replaced them with an abundance of talent off last year's jayvee Mules. Six-foot-four, 195-pound junior center Curtis Hinton seems to be the best bet inside for Poplar Bluff. A couple inches taller and twenty pounds heavier than Hinton is Malden's Robert Blackman. He scored 18 points in Malden's season opener against Gideon this past week.

The 7:30 p.m. Monday night game pits second-seeded Charleston against tiny New Madrid. When you don't possess a good six-footer in basketball, you're in trouble, no matter how much defense or shooting you have. Coach Carroll Compton of the Indians occupies this uneasy situation entering the game aginst 1-0 Charleston and their junior phenom, Ricky Frazier. Tucker is averaging 12.8 for the 1-3 New Madrid team. Tanner is at 12.2. The 6-foot-6 Frazier can be expected to be Charleston's top scorer after averaging 14 per game as a sophomore and opened the season with 21 against Kelly. He was also in double figures rebounding. Mike Smith gives coach Mitch Haskins experience at guard.

The nine o'clock game pits number-one seeded Lilbourn against Dexter. The Bearcats will have the dubious honor of opening their season against a team that is the district's best, until proven otherwise. Six-foot-five Mark Guethle bears most of the Dexter responsibility on the boards. He is the only returning full-time starter for DHS coach Jim Hall. Lilbourn, 4-0 after four games, is led in scoring by Frankie Robinson and Don Treadwell, both at an even 20 points per game.

The loser of the Dexter-Lilbourn contest opposes the Malden-Poplar Bluff loser at 6:00 p.m. Tuesday, followed by the showdown between the two winners. Then, at nine, the host Sikeston Bulldogs open the season against East Prairie. Sikeston finished second in last year's tournament.

Two state champs? Three regional champions? You bet the Sikeston Invitational is strong. There are nearly four thousand seats in the SHS fieldhouse just waiting for anyone who wishses to watch the best in high school basketball.

A&M defense shines

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard saw his brawling defense Friday destroy the Wishbone-T offense he created in a vicious-hitting 20-10 Southwest Conference victory over bitter rival Texas, but there was no remorse.

"I don't care if they were running the single wing," Bellard said. "I am just glad to finally beat Texas."

It was Bellard's first victory over Texas and his former boss, Longhorn Coach Darrell Royal, in the Aggie mentor's four years at A&M. It set up a Dec. 6 showdown with Arkansas for the right to represent the SWC in the Cotton Bowl on Dec. 6 and clinched at least a co-championship for the second-ranked Aggies.

The winner of the A&M-Arkansas game at Little Rock goes to the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day against Georgia while the loser meets Southern Cal in the Liberty Bowl Dec. 22.

The unbeaten Aggies limited high-scoring, fifth-ranked Texas to only six first downs. But Bellard said, "This was the toughest game we've had this year."

It was Bellard's brainstorm that came up with the original triple option Wishbone-T and Royal refined it to the point where it became one of the most popular offenses in the country.

The Aggies, owning the nation's No. 1 defense, limited Texas to only 113 yards rushing—the lowest by any Royal team in three years.

Texas played without the services of senior quarterback Marty Akins in the second half and Bellard said, "I'm sure he means a lot to his team...but I won't belittle our team for winning with Akins out."

Bellard took note of the fact that A&M had fumbled the opening snap in the three losses to Texas during his regime. He put in a tricky reverse on A&M's second offensive play after an opening fullback plunge and the Aggie Coach chuckled: "We weren't trying to catch them by surprise. We were trying to score."

Carl Roaches scampered 47 yards on the reverse to set up an early first period field goal, and A&M never trailed.

Bellard even joked with his team at halftime when the Aggies led only 10-7.

"I told them with a straight face that if Texas didn't score any more points, we would win."

Linebacker Ed Simonini and defensive back William Thompson saw to it that Texas did not cross the Aggie goal and freshman fullback George Woodard, who scored what proved to be the winning touchdown in the fourth period, made Bellard's dream come true.

ASU Indians end school's finest season

JONESBORO, Ark. — Nineteen-hundred--and-seventy-five. It's been a good year for Arkansas State University football.

In fact, it's been the best season in ASU history. Never before in 61 years of competition has an Indian team marched so relaxingly through an 11-game season. The only other 11-0 ASU club, the College Division National Championship bunch of 1970, knocked off 10 regular season opponents and a Pecan Bowl victim, but several of those outcomes were in doubt to the end.

"Now that the season is over, I guess I can say this," noted Head Coach Bill Davidson. "I don't feel like this team was seriusly challenged in any of our 11 games this season. We as a coaching staff probably haven't realized yet just how strong a team we had this season.

"We don't really know how far we could have gone up the big-time ladder this season, but we do know we didn't reach our limit. We beat some teams this year that have beaten others which have been ranked in the Top Twenty. We beat another good team on the road (Cincinnati) worse than one of the Gator Bowl-bound teams (Maryland) did.

"I've been around college football for awhile now," Davidson continued, "and I'd have to say to anybody that there aren't 20 teams in the country right now that are better than this one."

The Indians, whose perfect season has included their first Southland Conference championship since 1970, were snubbed by all 11 major bowls, but that didn't seem to bother Davidson as much as it did some of the players.

"Sure, we're a little disappointed, especially for the players," the ASU chief said. "They were kinda looking forward to a big post-season challenge. But you can talk to any of them, and I bet they'll tell you the bowl thing was only a secondary goal. The only real goal we had at the beginning was to win the conference, and we had fun doing it."

The topping on the dominating championship season has already proved to be a rich one. It included finishing the season with the nation's longest major college win streak (14 games) and being ranked all season in several team and individual categories.

For instance, this week the Tribe is tops among all 134 major schools in rushing offense with an average of 340.5 yards per game. It's fourth in scoring defense (7.4), sixth in scoring offense (32.3), sixth in rushing defense (101.4) and seventh in total defense (215.6).

Individually, quarterback David Hines is listed second in scoring with 102 points (9.3 per game), punter Dan Mullen 12th with a 42.8 average and tailback Dennis Bolden 18th in rushing with a 108.3-yards-per-game average. And, NCAA officials say defensive end Jimmy Lisko would have the record for most blocked punts in a season (eight), if such records were kept.

Then there's the honor of being one of only four remaining untied-unbeaten major teamd in the country (with Ohio State, Texas A & M and Arizona State).

"There are going to be a lot of ways to look back for awhile now at an undefeated season," Davidson said. "It's a tremendous feeling, especially with the schedule we had, to do what we did."

But it doesn't mean the coaches can relax any. Sunday, after returning from the night-before 30-13 triumph over Louisiana Tech, they began scattering throughout Arkansas and surrounding states, looking for more quality players.

"We have some quality people coming back, some who didn't get to play much this year," Davidson revealed, "but you can never have too many. Besides, we've set a precedent this year that's going to take some doing to duplicate next year."

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — The heavily guarded penalty box at London Gardens was the scene of a crime just prior to Friday's Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A game between the London Knights and Kingston Canadians.

Concerned leagde officials have insisted on extra police protection in the penalty box area since fighting erupted between fans and visiting players at games earlier in the season.

But unnoticed by police, someone managed to steal a pail of pucks from the penalty box, delaying the game for several minutes while officials looked for a new supply.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Mike Byers, a veteran World Hockey Association right wing, was given his unconditional release Friday night by the New England Whalers.

Byers had four goals and three assists in 17 games this season and General Manager-Coach Jack Kelley said he was unhappy with his performance.

Byers, 29, had been placed on waivers but was not claimed by any WHA team for the $100 waiver price.

Six prep tournaments provide fans with choice of action

By BILL HARRISON

Next week can easily be labeled "tournament week" in southeast Missouri as no less than six are in the surrounding area. Oran, Bernie, Woodland, Sikeston, Farmington and South Pemiscot are the sites.

All five tournaments in the area will have some interesting matchups with top teams entered in each one.

At Oran Scott Central and Kelly are top two teams which has been the pattern for the past three or four years. Kelly has won the tournament the past couple of years but had to go into double overtime last year to take the cahmpionship from Scott Central.

This year the Braves are seeded number one and the Hawks are second. Scott Central has a good running team with ability to score but must get more defense than has been shown if they are to upend Kelly. The Hawks are capable of putting five players in double figures any game.

Randolph to speak at Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF--Popular NBC-TV sportscaster Jay Randolph will be the keynote speaker at the 30th, Annual Poplar Bluff Letter Club Gridiron Banquet to be held here on Wednesday evening, December 3rd, at 6:30 p.m.

This annual banquet serves as a climax to the Southeast Missouri high school football season as it is the occasion for honoring the players selected to the North, South and Bootheel All-Conference teams. The leading conference scorers and outstanding linemen are also guests of the Letter Club.

Team conference championship trophies will be presented to the Jackson, East Prairie and Scott City squads by Bill Nance, of Portageville, president of the SEMO Conference.

Describing KSD Sports Director Jay Randolph as one of St. Louis' best known sportscasters is telling only half the story. The other half is that he's now one of the nation's best known ones, too.

The reason is that besides his full schedule of duties at KSD, which includes play-by-play of Cardinal baseball telecasts, he's in demand by NBC for a variety of national play-by-play assignments. For the last several falls, as an example, Jay's been on the NBC-TV team for weekly telecasts of National Football League games. Each March has found him describing the action in the NCAA basketball championships.

Jay's been on NBC-TV's golfcasting teams for all the big tournaments the network covers--the Dean Martin and Bob Hope events, and the World Series of Golf--and he has also handled several major league baseball games-of-the-week. He also was on the reporting teams for NBC-TV's highly praised coverage of the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. For NBC Radio, Jay has handled a Super Bowl football game and four recent Orange Bowl gridiron contests on New Year's night. Additionally, for the national TVS-TV network, Jay has been the play-by-play announcer for Big Eight Conference basketball games the past two seasons, as well as for other key hardwood matches.

These national assignments of course, reflect the tremendous job he does covering St. Louis area sports. In addition to the thorough job of reporting he does on regularly-scheduled KSD-TV and KSD Radio news programs--reports that have included many news "firsts"--Jay also is, as aforementioned, the "voice" of Cardinal baseball games on KSD-TV, and has also called the action for football Cardinals pre-season games, St. Louis University basketball, Missouri University football and Missouri State High School championship basketball games.

Bluejays rout Kelly 90-54

CHARLESTON--Very few high school teams actually play defense. The Charleston Blue Jays do. Nick Lanpher could be the first witness to testify to that.

"I don't really think we're that good," said Charleston's Mitch Haskins after his team's 90-54 romp over highly -touted Kelly. You couldn't really tell if Haskins believed what he was saying.

He did mean it when he said, "Kelly's not that bad."

Using the various confusing zones, traps, man-to-mans that the defensive wizard, Haskins, has thought up, the youthful Charleston Blue Jays ran up a lead of over 40 points before the fourth quarter, then played everyone who came to the gym with a Blue Jay uniform.

"Remember, we only start one senior," said the surprised and pleased Charleston head man, "We even start two sophomores."

Ricky "Big Al" Frazier was the leading scorer for the Jays. Playing less than three quarters, the 6-foot-6 Frazier dominated floorplay and ended the game with 21 points and ten rebounds. A 6-3 junior, Percy Owens, added 18 and the only senior starter, Mike Smith, had 16.

Bobby Pittman scored 17 Hawks points. Only Ronny Hagar's 12 joined Pittman in the double-figure category.

With Kelly proving unable to cope with the CHS defenses, the Jays raced to a 28-14 first quarter lead. The margin had been expanded to two dozen, 48-24, by intermission. The stunned and delighted Haskins was at a loss as to what to tell his squad. But, what ever he said, it must have been right because there was no third period letup. Charleston led 71-32 entering the last quarter and Kelly could do little more than stay even with the Charleston reserves.

"We're weak this year. We are," Mitch "the Switch" protested. But, there wasn't any conviction in his tone. The man was obviously high---on victory.

With a state championship in 1975 and this kind of start--can you blame him?

Indians come back to win opener 84-78

CAPE GIRARDEAU—The Southeast Missouri State Indians overcame a poor shooting first half by using an effective press and consistent rebounding to down Culver-Stockton 84-78 in the Indians' season opener Friday night at Houck Fieldhouse.

The win not only got Semo's season off to a good start, but also gave head coach Carroll Williams his first win as the Indian boss. Williams took over the position after the resignation of Bob Cradic last season.

The Indians trailed 39-33 at the half, largely because of a 39 percent shooting rate in the opening twenty minutes. The visitors, on the other hand, shot a sizzling 61 per cent.

The Indians, who were playing without the services of the injured Joe Cagle, got a big lift from their youngsters in the second half. The Indian press forced numberous Culver-Stockton turnovers, while the Semo shooting began to pick up at the same time.

But the big difference in the game came at the free-throw line. Culver-Stockton had only eight attempts at the stripe and sank four of them. The Indians, although they pressed most of the game, committed only 14 fouls and made 16 of their own 21 foul shots.

Senior Randy Carter gunned in 18 points to pace the Semo attack. Tom Mitchell added 16 while junior college transfer Ray Mosby threw in twelve. Toran of Culver-Stockton finished with 25 points to top the losers.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — San Francisco 49ers' strong safety Mel Phillips won't play in Sunday's National Football League game against the Eagles at Philadelphia, the team physician says.

Coach Dick Nolan said Thursday that Windlan Hall will replace Phillips, who injured his arm in last Sunday's 16-6 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

"We haven't been able to get a clear picture to determine the extent of Mel's injury," said team physician Dr. Lloyd Milburn. "And rather than risk any aggravation, we felt it would be advisable to rest him Sunday."

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Hawks placed rookie guard Wilbur Holland on waivers Thursday, freeing a spot on the roster for a possible deal with another National Basketball Association team.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — A heart attack has claimed the life of Louis A. "Lou" Onesty, 67, track and cross country coach the last 22 years at the University of Virginia.

Hayti dumps EP Eagles 68-52

EAST PRAIRIE---The Hayti Indians had no trouble whipping the EPHS Eagles here Friday night 68-52. Hayti used their power to jump to a 22-10 first period lead and the Eagles were never able to get back into contention.

Hayti dominated the backboards over the smaller Eagles as Sylvester James took charge early. Robinson scored 20 points for Hayti and James scored 16.

Grady Williford and Danny Johnson scored 17 and 16 respectively for the Eagles.

The Eagles take on the Sikeston Bulldogs next Monday night in the SHS invitational tournament at 9:00.

Hayti won the JV game 67-41 as Callie scored 18 points. Wheatly scored 12 for East Prairie.

UCLA headed for Rose Bowl after beating USC

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John Sciarra passed to tight end Don Pederson for two touchdowns and UCLA overcame 11 fumbles Friday to limp its way into the Rose Bowl with a hard-fought 25-22 victory over arch rival Southern California.

Sciarra, running the UCLA Veer attack mostly on the ground, completed just three passes. But his completions of 18 and 19 yards to the 6-foot-3 Pederson gave the Bruins a 25-14 lead and UCLA's often-maligned defense came up with the key plays as Southern Cal lost its fourth game in a row.

Ricky Bell, the nation's leading rusher, gained 136 yards to fall just six yards short of Ed Marinaro's national collegiate record of 1,881 yards rushing in a season. But Bell's one-yard run in the first period gave USC a 7-0 lead with just 4:04 gone.

Eddie Ayers' five-yard run with 34 seconds left in the first quarter put the Bruins behind 7-6. But then Southern Cal moved ahead 14-6 on quarterback Vince Evans' four-yard run early in the second quarter.

Minutes later, Sciarra pitched to tailback Wendell Tyler, who ran 57 yards for a touchdown that brought the Bruins to within two points. And Sciarra's 18-yard strike to Pederson with 5:39 left before halftime put the Bruins in front 18-14.

UCLA's Wally Henry took the opening kickoff of the second half and ran it back 80 yards to the Southern Cal 20 and one play later Tyler fumbled and USC's Kevin Bruce recovered. But when fullback Mosi Tatupu fumbled on the Trojans' first play and UCLA's Harold Hardin recovered, the Bruins had the ball back.

On the first scrimmage play after that miscue, Sciarra sprinted to the left, stopped short and threw to Pederson for 19 yards over the middle and the big tight end ran untouched to the end zone for the key score.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Bell blasted in from three yards out as the Trojans capitalized on another UCLA fumble and Bell tacked on a two-point conversion run.

Despite eight lost fumbles-a Pacific-8 Conference record-UCLA improved its season record to 8-2-1, 6-1 in the Pac-8, and will play Ohio State in the Rose Bowl game for the Bruins' first trip to Pasadena in a decade. Southern Cal dropped to 7-4 and has a date to play in the Liberty Bowl Dec. 22 in Memphis.

Sciarra, cool and confident in 50 degree weather, appeared unstoppable in the first three quarters. By halftime, UCLA had gained 248 yards rushing against a USC defense which had permitted just 123 per game.

In fact, UCLA did not have to punt until midway through the fourth quarter.

Leading 25-14, Sciarra threw his first drop-back pass of the game late in the third period and Danny Reece of the Trojans made his 18th career interception, bringing the ball back 35 yards to the Bruin 46.

Bell, who carried 36 times, had five carries in a drive that brought the ball to the 10. But a fourth-down pass by Evans was incomplete.

On UCLA's first play at the 10, Ayers fumbled and Bruce recovered his second fumble of the game. Three plays later Bell scored.

From that point on UCLA could do almost nothing right.

Tyler fumbled at the UCLA 23 and Ron Bush recovered for USC, but UCLA's Oscar Edwards dumped Bell for losses on two plays and a 52-yard field goal attempt fell short.

On UCLA's second punt of the game, Brett White fumbled the snap, Red Martin of the Trojans recovered and USC had the ball at the UCLA 18. But an offensive pass interference penalty pushed the Trojans out of scoring range again. However, Kenny Lee fumbled minutes later and Martin again recovered to give the Trojans a last gasp. Evans missed on four pass attempts and UCLA held on.

Tyler wound up with 130 yards rushing to become UCLA's all-time single-season leader with 1,216, surpassing Kermit Johnson's, 1,129 set in 1973.

Sciarra had 85 yards rushing and 86 passing and Ayers 98 yards rushing as the Bruins rolled for 414 total yards.

The UCLA-Ohio State match up in the Rose Bowl brings together two teams which collided here on Oct. 4. The Buckeyes, then as now rated No. 1, throttled the Bruins 41-20.

In UCLA's last appearance in the Rose Bowl, 1966, the Bruins met and defeated Michigan State 14-12, a team they had lost to 13-3 in that season's opener.

Randolph to speak at Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF--Popular NBC-TV sportscaster Jay Randolph will be the keynote speaker at the 30th, Annual Poplar Bluff Letter Club Gridiron Banquet to be held here on Wednesday evening, December 3rd, at 6:30 p.m.

This annual banquet serves as a climax to the Southeast Missouri high school football season as it is the occasion for honoring the players selected to the North, South and Bootheel All-Conference teams. The leading conference scorers and outstanding linemen are also guests of the Letter Club.

Team conference championship trophies will be presented to the Jackson, East Prairie and Scott City squads by Bill Nance, of Portageville, president of the SEMO Conference.

Describing KSD Sports Director Jay Randolph as one of St. Louis' best known sportscasters is telling only half the story. The other half is that he's now one of the nation's best known ones, too.

The reason is that besides his full schedule of duties at KSD, which includes play-by-play of Cardinal baseball telecasts, he's in demand by NBC for a variety of national play-by-play assignments. For the last several falls, as an example, Jay's been on the NBC-TV team for weekly telecasts of National Football League games. Each March has found him describing the action in the NCAA basketball championships.

Jay's been on NBC-TV's golfcasting teams for all the big tournaments the network covers--the Dean Martin and Bob Hope events, and the World Series of Golf--and he has also handled several major league baseball games-of-the-week. He also was on the reporting teams for NBC-TV's highly praised coverage of the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. For NBC Radio, Jay has handled a Super Bowl football game and four recent Orange Bowl gridiron contests on New Year's night. Additionally, for the national TVS-TV network, Jay has been the play-by-play announcer for Big Eight Conference basketball games the past two seasons, as well as for other key hardwood matches.

These national assignments of course, reflect the tremendous job he does covering St. Louis area sports. In addition to the thorough job of reporting he does on regularly-scheduled KSD-TV and KSD Radio news programs--reports that have included many news "firsts"--Jay also is, as aforementioned, the "voice" of Cardinal baseball games on KSD-TV, and has also called the action for football Cardinals pre-season games, St. Louis University basketball, Missouri University football and Missouri State High School championship basketball games.

Indians come back to win opener 84-78

CAPE GIRARDEAU—The Southeast Missouri State Indians overcame a poor shooting first half by using an effective press and consistent rebounding to down Culver-Stockton 84-78 in the Indians' season opener Friday night at Houck Fieldhouse.

The win not only got Semo's season off to a good start, but also gave head coach Carroll Williams his first win as the Indian boss. Williams took over the position after the resignation of Bob Cradic last season.

The Indians trailed 39-33 at the half, largely because of a 39 percent shooting rate in the opening twenty minutes. The visitors, on the other hand, shot a sizzling 61 per cent.

The Indians, who were playing without the services of the injured Joe Cagle, got a big lift from their youngsters in the second half. The Indian press forced numberous Culver-Stockton turnovers, while the Semo shooting began to pick up at the same time.

But the big difference in the game came at the free-throw line. Culver-Stockton had only eight attempts at the stripe and sank four of them. The Indians, although they pressed most of the game, committed only 14 fouls and made 16 of their own 21 foul shots.

Senior Randy Carter gunned in 18 points to pace the Semo attack. Tom Mitchell added 16 while junior college transfer Ray Mosby threw in twelve. Toran of Culver-Stockton finished with 25 points to top the losers.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — San Francisco 49ers' strong safety Mel Phillips won't play in Sunday's National Football League game against the Eagles at Philadelphia, the team physician says.

Coach Dick Nolan said Thursday that Windlan Hall will replace Phillips, who injured his arm in last Sunday's 16-6 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

"We haven't been able to get a clear picture to determine the extent of Mel's injury," said team physician Dr. Lloyd Milburn. "And rather than risk any aggravation, we felt it would be advisable to rest him Sunday."

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Hawks placed rookie guard Wilbur Holland on waivers Thursday, freeing a spot on the roster for a possible deal with another National Basketball Association team.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — A heart attack has claimed the life of Louis A. "Lou" Onesty, 67, track and cross country coach the last 22 years at the University of Virginia.

Hayti dumps EP Eagles 68-52

EAST PRAIRIE---The Hayti Indians had no trouble whipping the EPHS Eagles here Friday night 68-52. Hayti used their power to jump to a 22-10 first period lead and the Eagles were never able to get back into contention.

Hayti dominated the backboards over the smaller Eagles as Sylvester James took charge early. Robinson scored 20 points for Hayti and James scored 16.

Grady Williford and Danny Johnson scored 17 and 16 respectively for the Eagles.

The Eagles take on the Sikeston Bulldogs next Monday night in the SHS invitational tournament at 9:00.

Hayti won the JV game 67-41 as Callie scored 18 points. Wheatly scored 12 for East Prairie.

UCLA headed for Rose Bowl after beating USC

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John Sciarra passed to tight end Don Pederson for two touchdowns and UCLA overcame 11 fumbles Friday to limp its way into the Rose Bowl with a hard-fought 25-22 victory over arch rival Southern California.

Sciarra, running the UCLA Veer attack mostly on the ground, completed just three passes. But his completions of 18 and 19 yards to the 6-foot-3 Pederson gave the Bruins a 25-14 lead and UCLA's often-maligned defense came up with the key plays as Southern Cal lost its fourth game in a row.

Ricky Bell, the nation's leading rusher, gained 136 yards to fall just six yards short of Ed Marinaro's national collegiate record of 1,881 yards rushing in a season. But Bell's one-yard run in the first period gave USC a 7-0 lead with just 4:04 gone.

Eddie Ayers' five-yard run with 34 seconds left in the first quarter put the Bruins behind 7-6. But then Southern Cal moved ahead 14-6 on quarterback Vince Evans' four-yard run early in the second quarter.

Minutes later, Sciarra pitched to tailback Wendell Tyler, who ran 57 yards for a touchdown that brought the Bruins to within two points. And Sciarra's 18-yard strike to Pederson with 5:39 left before halftime put the Bruins in front 18-14.

UCLA's Wally Henry took the opening kickoff of the second half and ran it back 80 yards to the Southern Cal 20 and one play later Tyler fumbled and USC's Kevin Bruce recovered. But when fullback Mosi Tatupu fumbled on the Trojans' first play and UCLA's Harold Hardin recovered, the Bruins had the ball back.

On the first scrimmage play after that miscue, Sciarra sprinted to the left, stopped short and threw to Pederson for 19 yards over the middle and the big tight end ran untouched to the end zone for the key score.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Bell blasted in from three yards out as the Trojans capitalized on another UCLA fumble and Bell tacked on a two-point conversion run.

Despite eight lost fumbles-a Pacific-8 Conference record-UCLA improved its season record to 8-2-1, 6-1 in the Pac-8, and will play Ohio State in the Rose Bowl game for the Bruins' first trip to Pasadena in a decade. Southern Cal dropped to 7-4 and has a date to play in the Liberty Bowl Dec. 22 in Memphis.

Sciarra, cool and confident in 50 degree weather, appeared unstoppable in the first three quarters. By halftime, UCLA had gained 248 yards rushing against a USC defense which had permitted just 123 per game.

In fact, UCLA did not have to punt until midway through the fourth quarter.

Leading 25-14, Sciarra threw his first drop-back pass of the game late in the third period and Danny Reece of the Trojans made his 18th career interception, bringing the ball back 35 yards to the Bruin 46.

Bell, who carried 36 times, had five carries in a drive that brought the ball to the 10. But a fourth-down pass by Evans was incomplete.

On UCLA's first play at the 10, Ayers fumbled and Bruce recovered his second fumble of the game. Three plays later Bell scored.

From that point on UCLA could do almost nothing right.

Tyler fumbled at the UCLA 23 and Ron Bush recovered for USC, but UCLA's Oscar Edwards dumped Bell for losses on two plays and a 52-yard field goal attempt fell short.

On UCLA's second punt of the game, Brett White fumbled the snap, Red Martin of the Trojans recovered and USC had the ball at the UCLA 18. But an offensive pass interference penalty pushed the Trojans out of scoring range again. However, Kenny Lee fumbled minutes later and Martin again recovered to give the Trojans a last gasp. Evans missed on four pass attempts and UCLA held on.

Tyler wound up with 130 yards rushing to become UCLA's all-time single-season leader with 1,216, surpassing Kermit Johnson's, 1,129 set in 1973.

Sciarra had 85 yards rushing and 86 passing and Ayers 98 yards rushing as the Bruins rolled for 414 total yards.

The UCLA-Ohio State match up in the Rose Bowl brings together two teams which collided here on Oct. 4. The Buckeyes, then as now rated No. 1, throttled the Bruins 41-20.

In UCLA's last appearance in the Rose Bowl, 1966, the Bruins met and defeated Michigan State 14-12, a team they had lost to 13-3 in that season's opener.

1975 Christmas Seals

Kids Did Them Their Way

For the first time in 70 years, kids' art is being used on Christmas seals.

Work on the seals began two years ago when a committee decided to switch to children's art and to pick one design from each state, plus one from the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Samoa-Guam.

Art teachers throughout the country asked kids to paint pictures about what Christmas means to them. This was not a contest and the children did not even know their paintings were being considered for the seals.

The seals are issued each year by the American Lung Association. The money raised is used to fight lung diseases and air pollution.

Match the seal to the state!

We did not have room for Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Samoa-Guam.

Super Sport: John Zook

It's a bird! It's a plane! No, it's John Zook! The Atlanta Falcons' defensive end soars through the air. Skydiving is one of his favorite hobbies. Once his main parachute didn't open and he made an emergency landing in a cow pasture, barely missing death. On the football field, the six-foot five-inch, 248-pounder soars around quarterbacks. He is regarded as one of the best pass rushers in pro football.

John wears jersey number 27. He grew up in Kansas and attended the University of Kansas before turning pro. In addition to skydiving, John also enjoys camping and fishing.

The Christmas Stamp Mystery

The Problem:

Look at the new 1975 Christmas postal stamps. How are they different from any ever issued by the United States Postal Service?

The artist got the idea for the stamp on the left from a Christmas card that was sent nearly 100 years ago.

The Solution:

The stamps are different in that they do not have a price on them. Work on these stamps started over a year ago. The Post Office did not know how much the postage rate would be when they went on sale. For that reason, they left off the price. The price is now 10 cents. Soon, we will be paying 13 cents to mail our letters!

The Madonna and Child stamp is based on a very old painting by an Italian artist. The painting now hangs in the National Gallery in Washington.

Pop Up Christmas Card

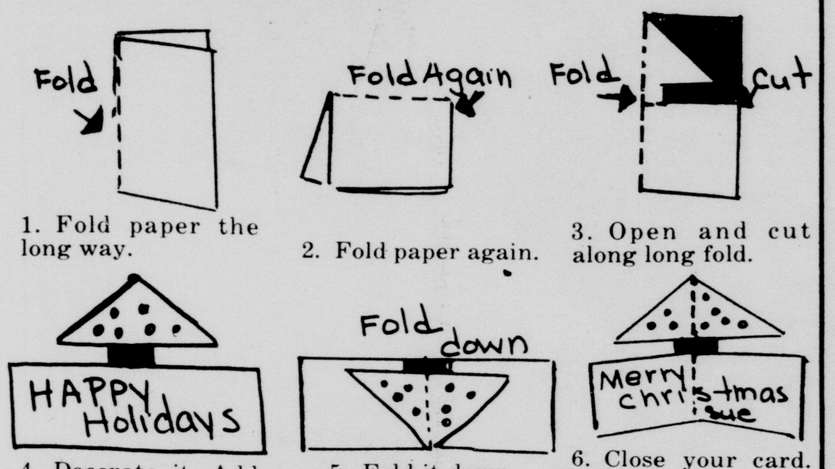
What you'll need:

- 9x12 green construction paper
- scissors • glue
- scraps of colored paper



1. Fold paper the long way.
2. Fold paper again.
3. Open and cut along long fold.
4. Decorate it. Add message.
5. Fold it down.
6. Close your card. When you open it, the tree will pop up!

The Jewish Holiday - Hanukah

Hanukah (HAH-noo-kah) is a Jewish holiday that started on November 29.

During Hanukah, Jewish boys and girls observe many customs.

One is lighting candles in a special candlestick, the Menorah. The Menorah holds eight candles with one place left over for the Shamash. The Shamash is the one candle used in lighting all the other candles.

On the first night of Hanukah, one candle is lit. On the second night, two candles are lit. This goes on eight happy nights. The candles burn until they go out. New candles are used each night.

Mini Do: Make a Scent Tree

This is a fun project for your classroom. You can make your tree for the whole class to enjoy and then take your scent bundle home as a gift for Mom!

What you'll need:

• a tree branch • ribbon • spray paint • small pieces of gingham or calico fabric • whole cloves, pickling spices, mint or sprigs of dried herbs that smell good.

What to do:

1. Spray paint your tree branch
2. Cut small squares about 8x8 inches.
3. Put cloves or scents in the center of each square.
4. Tie them to the branches with ribbon. (You'll want to tie a name tag on to your bundle so you'll know which one to take.)

(You can place your tree in a large decorated tin can. Rocks can be put in the bottom to hold it steady. Put some bundles around the bottom to cover the rocks.)

What Would You Do?

You have a new friend. You have never exchanged Christmas gifts with her, but you are thinking about it. You don't know if she is planning to give you a gift or not and you don't want to embarrass her.

There is a huge package way back on the top shelf of a closet. You certainly are curious about it. What would you do?

Super Sport: John Zook

It's a bird! It's a plane! No, it's John Zook! The Atlanta Falcons' defensive end soars through the air. Skydiving is one of his favorite hobbies. Once his main parachute didn't open and he made an emergency landing in a cow pasture, barely missing death. On the football field, the six-foot five-inch, 248-pounder soars around quarterbacks. He is regarded as one of the best pass rushers in pro football.

John wears jersey number 27. He grew up in Kansas and attended the University of Kansas before turning pro. In addition to skydiving, John also enjoys camping and fishing.

The Christmas Stamp Mystery

The Problem:

Look at the new 1975 Christmas postal stamps. How are they different from any ever issued by the United States Postal Service?

The artist got the idea for the stamp on the left from a Christmas card that was sent nearly 100 years ago.

The Solution:

The stamps are different in that they do not have a price on them. Work on these stamps started over a year ago. The Post Office did not know how much the postage rate would be when they went on sale. For that reason, they left off the price. The price is now 10 cents. Soon, we will be paying 13 cents to mail our letters!

The Madonna and Child stamp is based on a very old painting by an Italian artist. The painting now hangs in the National Gallery in Washington.

Pop Up Christmas Card

What you'll need:
- 9x12 green construction paper
- scissors • glue
- scraps of colored paper

The Jewish Holiday - Hanukah

Hanukah (HAH-noo-kah) is a Jewish holiday that started on November 29.

During Hanukah, Jewish boys and girls observe many customs.

One is lighting candles in a special candlestick, the Menorah. The Menorah holds eight candles with one place left over for the Shamash. The Shamash is the one candle used in lighting all the other candles.

On the first night of Hanukah, one candle is lit. On the second night, two candles are lit. This goes on eight happy nights. The candles burn until they go out. New candles are used each night.

Mini Do: Make a Scent Tree

This is a fun project for your classroom. You can make your tree for the whole class to enjoy and then take your scent bundle home as a gift for Mom!

What you'll need:

• a tree branch • ribbon • spray paint • small pieces of gingham or calico fabric • whole cloves, pickling spices, mint or sprigs of dried herbs that smell good.

What to do:

1. Spray paint your tree branch
2. Cut small squares about 8x8 inches.
3. Put cloves or scents in the center of each square.
4. Tie them to the branches with ribbon. (You'll want to tie a name tag on to your bundle so you'll know which one to take.)

(You can place your tree in a large decorated tin can. Rocks can be put in the bottom to hold it steady. Put some bundles around the bottom to cover the rocks.)

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Nov. 29, the 333rd day of 1975. There are 32 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1760, the French surrendered Detroit to the British at the end of the French and Indian War.

On this date:

In 1825, the first Italian opera presented in the United States, Rossini's "Barber of Seville," was performed in New York.

In 1899, the United States, Switzerland and France recognized the Republic of Brazil.

In 1922, archaeologists announced they had found fabulous treasure in the tomb of King Tutankhamen in Egypt.

In 1929, U.S. Navy Lieutenant Commander Richard Byrd radioed that he had made the first flight over the South Pole.

In 1945, the monarchy was abolished in Yugoslavia.

In 1966, President Lyndon Johnson named a commission headed by Earl Warren to investigate the assassination of John Kennedy.

Ten years ago: U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara ended a visit to South Vietnam and said it seemed clear that North Vietnam would raise the level of conflict and that the Vietnamese War would be a long one.

Five years ago: Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev denounced U.S. air raids against North Vietnam as "banditry."

One year ago: One of the world's richest men, oilman H.L. Hunt, died in Dallas at the age of 85.

Today's birthdays: Artist James Rosenquist is 42. Skier Suzanne Chaffe is 29.

Thought for today: Never stand begging for that which you have the power to earn — Miguel Cervantes, Spanish writer, 1547-1616.

FILTHY LUCRE doesn't get past this sudsy operation. Coin, medal and ingot blanks enroute to minting receive a vigorous detergent bath in a burnishing vat at the Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pa.

WHAT APPEARS to be a picturesque view of the ocean's floor is actually part of a nickel current collector in a mercury-cadmium battery simulator magnified 1,000 times at General Electric's Research and Development Center in Schenectady. The shells are really tiny lumps of cadmium compounds attached to the nickel during experiments with producing longer-life batteries.

PIPE DREAMS could easily become nightmares in a situation like this. Actually, Gordon Belt likes his work checking out a few of the 1,300 pipes of an organ that was once the pride of the Roxy Theater in Atlanta. Right, Belt warms up at the keyboard of the massive theater organ, now installed as a prize exhibit in the Merle Norman Tower of Beauty in San Sylmar, Calif.

IN TEXAS, they do everything on a grand scale. Vanita Klutz, a hostess at the Astroworld amusement park in Houston, rides the biggest six-shooter in the Lone Star state, a 15-foot, 500-pound peacemaker on display.

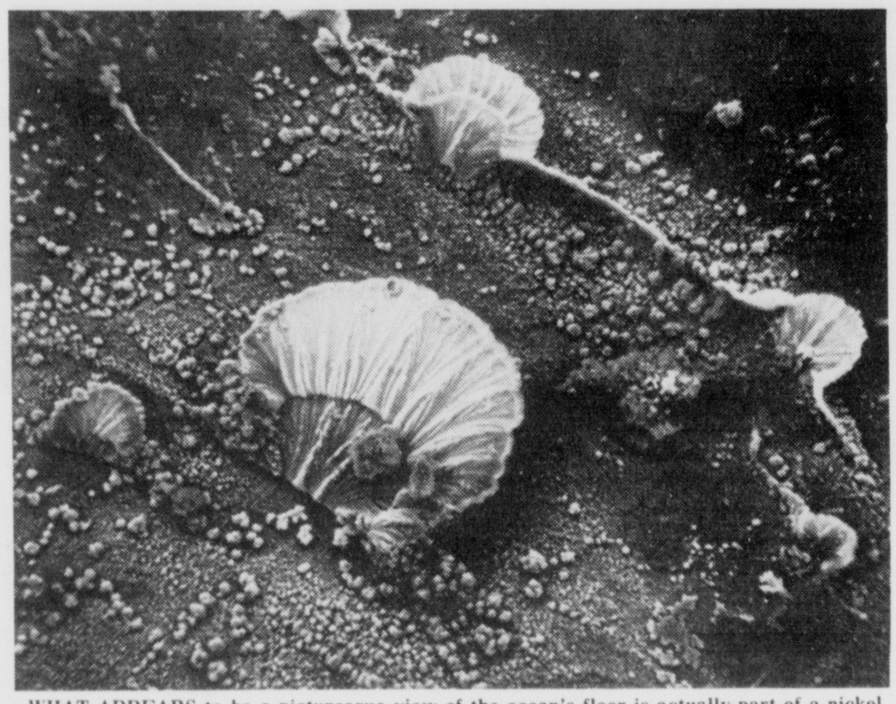
FILTHY LUCRE doesn't get past this sudsy operation. Coin, medal and ingot blanks enroute to minting receive a vigorous detergent bath in a burnishing vat at the Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pa.



WHAT APPEARS to be a picturesque view of the ocean's floor is actually part of a nickel current collector in a mercury-cadmium battery simulator magnified 1,000 times at General Electric's Research and Development Center in Schenectady. The shells are really tiny lumps of cadmium compounds attached to the nickel during experiments with producing longer-life batteries.

PIPE DREAMS could easily become nightmares in a situation like this. Actually, Gordon Belt likes his work checking out a few of the 1,300 pipes of an organ that was once the pride of the Roxy Theater in Atlanta. Right, Belt warms up at the keyboard of the massive theater organ, now installed as a prize exhibit in the Merle Norman Tower of Beauty in San Sylmar, Calif.

IN TEXAS, they do everything on a grand scale. Vanita Klutz, a hostess at the Astroworld amusement park in Houston, rides the biggest six-shooter in the Lone Star state, a 15-foot, 500-pound peacemaker on display.

Get Creative with a Separates Wardrobe

FOR SHEER VERSATILITY there's no way to beat separates. At left, is a matching ombre top and dirndl skirt. Then, for evening, you can keep wearing the skirt and change the top for a boucle-knit turtleneck, adding an obi belt. At right, the shell is still in style, this one with Belgian looping around the scoop neckline and worn with a matching skirt, silky scarf, bracelets and—your obi belt. (Striped top and skirt and turtleneck by Aileen. Belt by Ruza Creations. Shell by She Shells. Skirt by Brookvalley.)

2. Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere gratitude for all the kindnesses and courtesies extended to us at the passing of ourloved one, Tracy Alan Beeson, and to thank those who assisted at the services, those who sent the lovely flowers and thoughtful gifts of food. We appreciate the kindness of the staff of the Bill O'Guinn Funeral home. Special thanks to Robert Vaughn, famous writer of the Daily Sikeston Standard who helped put our thoughts into words and will appear in Sunday's issue of Scope. In memory of our loved one - the family of Tracy Alan Beeson.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 3, 1975
HY. 62 EAST OF 155 (Business Route) 9:00 o'clock

TRACTORS - IMPLEMENTS - MEDIUM SIZE DOZERS - BACKHOE UNITS - COMBINES - TRUCKS AND TRAILERS (TITLED UNITS ONLY) AND MANY RELATED ITEMS.

Auction "Know How" again made our last sale a Happy Event for both Buyers and Sellers-the consignors furnished a stock of new, like new and a wide selection of makes and models, and a variety of wanted horsepower, all adding up to another successful sale.

"Iron" changed hands with the Hale Auction customary rapidity, with Buyers and Sellers from "everywhere" attending.

Dec. 3rd preview of over 65 John Deere Tractors, including some new, some with very little use. 4630's, 4430's, 4620's, 4520's (16 from one consignor) 4010's 3020's, 3010's and several utility models. Also a Wide selection of IHC's, Ford's, Mr's, Allis's, Case's, Oliver's, M & M's, White's, David Brown's, and others will be here to be sold at Auction.

We will need and expect to have 250-300 Tractors, 800 - 1000 Implements, a good selection of light industrial equipment and many many other items.

COME SEE US ! ! WATCH OUR "KNOW HOW" AS IRON SALESMEN.

WE BUY, SELL TRADE DAILY.

Richardson offers help

PARIS (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson, President Ford's nominee for secretary of commerce, indicated today he would be willing to go on the campaign trail for Ford.

"I don't think there is any overriding reason why the secretary of commerce should stay out of political compaigning, the way I think (it) is appropriate for the secretary of state or the secretary of defense," the 55-year-old ambassador to Britain told newsmen.

Richardon served successively as secretary of health, education and welfare, secretary of defense and attorney general under President Richard M. Nixon.

Nuclear reactors easy prey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Terrorists, foreign agents and organized crime figures theoretically are capable of attacking nuclear power plants and releasing deadly radioactivity or stealing weapon components, according to a report prepared for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Publicity about U.S. intelligence operations has enhanced the capability of the Soviet bloc "to conduct sabotage operations against licensed nuclear facilities ...," the report warned.

It was prepared by a panel of 10 persons familiar with terrorism or nuclear activity and assembled by the Mitre Corp., a research organization with offices near Washington.

The report recommends that the commission, which licenses atomic operations, take steps to increase the security of nuclear facilities.

It said such groups as the Irish Republican Army, Palestinian guerrillas, or Latin American revolutionaries might sabotage a nuclear plant as vengeance or take control of a plant, holding it "hostage to destruction unless certain demands were met."

"The acquisition of special nuclear materials by a terrorist group would give it a power of blackmail over the world at large, and the United States in particular, without precedent," the report said.

It said that members of organized crime groups also have shown the ability to carry out the "patient, methodical work" needed to penetrate seemingly secure facilities. Terrorists, foreign nations and organized crime elements might work together to sabotage a nuclear operation, it said.

The study also warned that the intelligence network of China should not be underestimated regarding nuclear plants. "It is possible that China will become a much more serious threat to licensed nuclear facilities within the next 5 or 10 years," it said.

Daughter of Daily Standard founder dies

ARLINGTON, Va. -- Edna Blanton Payne, 82, died Friday at Sleepy Hollow Nursing Home in Arlington.

She was born in May 1893 in Washington, D.C. to the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Blanton Sr., who later moved to Sikeston, Mo., where he founded the Sikeston Standard in 1913.

Her husband, William E. Payne, preceded her in death during World War II.

She is survived by one son, William E. Payne Jr. of Miami, Fla.; two daughters, Mrs. Catherine V. Buckrop of Arlington and Mrs. Jeanne Lewis of Columbia, Mo.; four brothers, Charles L. Blanton Jr., Benjamin Blanton and David Blanton of Sikeston and Milton Blanton of Atlanta, Ga.; one sister, Mrs. Mary Watkins of Sikeston; and seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services are scheduled at 10 a.m. Monday in Ives Funeral Home at Arlington with the Rev. George Yount, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Columbia Gardens Cemetery at Arlington.

Eastern Star and American Legion 40 and 8 rites will be conducted Sunday evening inthe funeral home.

Thunderstorms move into state

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thunderstorms, some of them heavy, rode into northwest Missouri today on southerly winds and unseasonaby high temperatures.

Another system had formed suddenly overnight over central Missouri and then moved quickly eastward, but the whole of the state had the possibility of thunderstorms today and tonight.

The extended outlook from the National Weather Service indicates winter-like cold will be back on Monday.

Overnight lows from 38 at St. Louis and West Plains to 57 at Joplin wiped away all but traces of the heavy snow cover which was spread across Missouri on Tuesday and Wednesday by the first major storm of the winter season.

Forecast highs for today were in the 60s, compared with a range on Friday from 42 at West Plains to 58 at Joplin.

But tonight's lows are expected to be in the 30s in the west to the 40s in eastern Missouri, and Sunday's highs probably will not get abovethe 30s and 40s in the west and the 50s in the east. The thunderstorms are expected to disappear as it turns colder.

The extended outlook is for a chance of snow in the north and rain or snow in the south about Tuesday. Highs on Monday and Tuesday are expected to be from the middle 20s to middle 30s and reach into the low 40s on Wednesday. Lows Monday and Tuesday mornings probably will be in the upper teens to upper 20s, and on Wednesday morning mostly in the teens.

Agnew believes trip to China is 'a mistake'

HONG KONG (AP) Former Vice President Spiro Agnew says President Ford's forthcoming trip to China is "a mistake."

Agnew, who arrived here Friday for a three-day visit, said, "I think it's about time for Mr. Chou En-lai — well I realize he is very ill — or some important leaders from China to visit the United States."

Agnew will leave for Taiwan on Monday.

Security Council meets on prolonging buffer force

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With time running out, nations on the Security Council worked today to break a deadlock over Syria's price for prolonging the life of the U.N. buffer force on the Golan Heights — participation of the Palestine Liberation Organization in a Security Council debate on the entire Middle East situation.

The 15-member council met privately twice on Friday and scheduled more closed-door meetings today in efforts to frame a resolution prolonging the force that would be agreeable to Israel and Syria and to their backers on the council.

Legal authority for the 1,192-man Golan peace force expires Sunday midnight. The mandate of the 4,000-troop peace force between Egypt and Israel on the Sinai front runs until October, 1976.

In between their closed sessions in a basement room at U.N. headquarters, the council delegates were in contact with representatives of Israel and Syria and with their home capitals.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters in Washington some problems remain but "I am more optimistic than before" that Syria would agree to the extension.

Both Israel and Syria have accepted in principle a six-month extension. The problem was the wording that Syria wanted attached to the new mandate of the Security Council.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said in a report to the council that Syria wants the Security Council to take over "the substance of the Middle East problem" and it regards this as including the Palestinian problem.

He said its agreement to a six-month renewal depends on the council's declaring it would hold a Middle East debate in January with participation of the Palestine Liberation Organization, the PLO.

Council diplomats reported that if this were to be stated flatly in the mandate resolution it would either fail to get the required nine votes or it would be vetoed by the United States.

Tanzania and nonaligned members of the council were reported trying to work out a compromise formula that would not name the PLO but would refer to a General Assembly resolution declaring that the guerrilla organization was entitled to a full participation in Middle East matters.

Waldheim also reported, however, that Israel opposes having the Security Council become a negotiating body for Middle East problems or linking extension of the peace force mandate to the form of further negotiations.

The Golan Heights buffer force was created as a result of the Israeli-Syrian disengagement agreement which Kissinger negotiated in May, 1974, and the Israelis say this should suffice.

Richardson offers help

PARIS (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson, President Ford's nominee for secretary of commerce, indicated today he would be willing to go on the campaign trail for Ford.

"I don't think there is any overriding reason why the secretary of commerce should stay out of political compaigning, the way I think (it) is appropriate for the secretary of state or the secretary of defense," the 55-year-old ambassador to Britain told newsmen.

Richardon served successively as secretary of health, education and welfare, secretary of defense and attorney general under President Richard M. Nixon.

Nuclear reactors easy prey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Terrorists, foreign agents and organized crime figures theoretically are capable of attacking nuclear power plants and releasing deadly radioactivity or stealing weapon components, according to a report prepared for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Publicity about U.S. intelligence operations has enhanced the capability of the Soviet bloc "to conduct sabotage operations against licensed nuclear facilities ...," the report warned.

It was prepared by a panel of 10 persons familiar with terrorism or nuclear activity and assembled by the Mitre Corp., a research organization with offices near Washington.

The report recommends that the commission, which licenses atomic operations, take steps to increase the security of nuclear facilities.

It said such groups as the Irish Republican Army, Palestinian guerrillas, or Latin American revolutionaries might sabotage a nuclear plant as vengeance or take control of a plant, holding it "hostage to destruction unless certain demands were met."

"The acquisition of special nuclear materials by a terrorist group would give it a power of blackmail over the world at large, and the United States in particular, without precedent," the report said.

It said that members of organized crime groups also have shown the ability to carry out the "patient, methodical work" needed to penetrate seemingly secure facilities. Terrorists, foreign nations and organized crime elements might work together to sabotage a nuclear operation, it said.

The study also warned that the intelligence network of China should not be underestimated regarding nuclear plants. "It is possible that China will become a much more serious threat to licensed nuclear facilities within the next 5 or 10 years," it said.

Thunderstorms move into state

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thunderstorms, some of them heavy, rode into northwest Missouri today on southerly winds and unseasonaby high temperatures.

Another system had formed suddenly overnight over central Missouri and then moved quickly eastward, but the whole of the state had the possibility of thunderstorms today and tonight.

The extended outlook from the National Weather Service indicates winter-like cold will be back on Monday.

Overnight lows from 38 at St. Louis and West Plains to 57 at Joplin wiped away all but traces of the heavy snow cover which was spread across Missouri on Tuesday and Wednesday by the first major storm of the winter season.

Forecast highs for today were in the 60s, compared with a range on Friday from 42 at West Plains to 58 at Joplin.

But tonight's lows are expected to be in the 30s in the west to the 40s in eastern Missouri, and Sunday's highs probably will not get abovethe 30s and 40s in the west and the 50s in the east. The thunderstorms are expected to disappear as it turns colder.

The extended outlook is for a chance of snow in the north and rain or snow in the south about Tuesday. Highs on Monday and Tuesday are expected to be from the middle 20s to middle 30s and reach into the low 40s on Wednesday. Lows Monday and Tuesday mornings probably will be in the upper teens to upper 20s, and on Wednesday morning mostly in the teens.

Agnew believes trip to China is 'a mistake'

HONG KONG (AP) Former Vice President Spiro Agnew says President Ford's forthcoming trip to China is "a mistake."

Agnew, who arrived here Friday for a three-day visit, said, "I think it's about time for Mr. Chou En-lai — well I realize he is very ill — or some important leaders from China to visit the United States."

Agnew will leave for Taiwan on Monday.

Security Council meets on prolonging buffer force

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With time running out, nations on the Security Council worked today to break a deadlock over Syria's price for prolonging the life of the U.N. buffer force on the Golan Heights — participation of the Palestine Liberation Organization in a Security Council debate on the entire Middle East situation.

The 15-member council met privately twice on Friday and scheduled more closed-door meetings today in efforts to frame a resolution prolonging the force that would be agreeable to Israel and Syria and to their backers on the council.

Legal authority for the 1,192-man Golan peace force expires Sunday midnight. The mandate of the 4,000-troop peace force between Egypt and Israel on the Sinai front runs until October, 1976.

In between their closed sessions in a basement room at U.N. headquarters, the council delegates were in contact with representatives of Israel and Syria and with their home capitals.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters in Washington some problems remain but "I am more optimistic than before" that Syria would agree to the extension.

Both Israel and Syria have accepted in principle a six-month extension. The problem was the wording that Syria wanted attached to the new mandate of the Security Council.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said in a report to the council that Syria wants the Security Council to take over "the substance of the Middle East problem" and it regards this as including the Palestinian problem.

He said its agreement to a six-month renewal depends on the council's declaring it would hold a Middle East debate in January with participation of the Palestine Liberation Organization, the PLO.

Council diplomats reported that if this were to be stated flatly in the mandate resolution it would either fail to get the required nine votes or it would be vetoed by the United States.

Tanzania and nonaligned members of the council were reported trying to work out a compromise formula that would not name the PLO but would refer to a General Assembly resolution declaring that the guerrilla organization was entitled to a full participation in Middle East matters.

Waldheim also reported, however, that Israel opposes having the Security Council become a negotiating body for Middle East problems or linking extension of the peace force mandate to the form of further negotiations.

The Golan Heights buffer force was created as a result of the Israeli-Syrian disengagement agreement which Kissinger negotiated in May, 1974, and the Israelis say this should suffice.
